Missing Lincolnite Working In Kansas

. . . Silas Miller Surfaces

By GORDON WINTERS

Star Staff Writer

A Lincoln real estate developer, Silas Miller, who disappeared from the Little Blue River near Dorchester early this fall hitchhiked to Kansas and took a job there as a common laborer, according to the Nebraska State Patrol.

Mystery had shrouded the case since Miller's aluminum fishing boat was found floating upside down in the river by two fishermen the evening of Sept. 22.

Further investigation by the Saline County Sheriff's Office led to the discovery of a soggy pair of Miller's overalls in a thicket on the river bank.

Miller's Datsun pickup truck, with the keys in the ignition, was found parked near Miller's cabin, located about four miles north of Hwy. 33 and one mile west of the Milford road.

According to the Patrol, investigators interviewed Miller in Lincoln Sunday night. Lt. Lynn Parks said Miller was not taken into custody and indicated that no charges would be filed.

"No crime has been committed," Parks said.

Parks said that Miller rented a room at an undisclosed location in Kansas and took a job as a common laborer with a construction company.

Miller's attorney, Mike Alesio of Lincoln, said that Miller contacted family members last week and returned to Lincoln Sunday night, when the Patrol was notified.

Alesio said that Miller's disappearance was an "impulsive act triggered by a nervous collapse."

"A personality is a complex thing," Alesio said. "It shows you don't know a person like you think you do."

"It was just the pressures, I think . . . starting out in real estate," Alesio said.

He said there was no financial reason for Miller's disappearance.

Miller was the major shareholder in the M & S Development corporation. Earlier in his life he had been a plumbing contractor.

Alesio said he did not know exactly what Miller's future plans are, but he said he doubts whether Miller will stay in business as a real estate developer.

He said Miller has returned to Kansas, apparently to his job there, and that his wife may join him.

Miller's appearance means that Saline County Sheriff Ed Prokop can mark one of his two missing persons cases closed.

Still unsolved is the disappearance of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Oliva, an elderly Wilber couple who were reported missing on Aug. 3.

The couple was last seen driving east from their home. Neither they, nor their car has been seen since.

The couple took no clothes and left money in their home, located only two blocks from the sheriff's office, according to Prokop.

Another disappearance which is still unsolved is that of a 15-year-old Lincoln girl, Wendy Hile.

Questioned on current developments in the case Monday, Lincoln Police Department Inspector Robert Butcher said the case is still as puzzling as the day it was reported.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Hile, of 6222 Holdrege has been missing since the morning of Nov. 15 when she did not attend classes at Northeast High.

Butcher said that individuals have reported seeing her since then, but that the reports cannot be doublechecked from another source.

"There's nothing in the reports to indicate foul play, but that doesn't mean there wasn't," Butcher said.

ATHENS (AP) — Arab terrorists shot up a crowded Rome airport lounge Monday and firebombed a Pan American jetliner, leaving at least 30 persons dead. Then they hijacked a West German jet to Athens and police said the guerrillas executed a number of hostages.

Authorities said four hostages had died by the time Greek officials acceded to a demand for the freedom of two Palestinian Black September commandos imprisoned since a deadly armed attack last August on the Athens airport.

But even after direct conversations had begun with the Palestinian prisoners, sources monitoring conversations with the control tower said the plane's captain reported that his copilot was shot dead early Tuesday.

The sources in the tower said the captain shouted: "They're going to shoot him! They're going to shoot him!" Then a shot was heard and the captain said: "It's too late. He is dead."

He reportedly said the copilot was shot through the head.

Airline officials said they definitely knew of 14 hostages aboard the plane when it left Rome. Lufthansa in Frankfurt had reported that 18 other persons took refuge on the plane when the trouble began in Rome and had become hostages when it was commandeered.

Earlier, the tower sources said, a guerrilla who identified himself as the leader of the band proclaimed: "We love liberty, especially Palestinian liberty." He said he wanted "to tell the world about our cause. We are going to conduct a slaughter at Athens airport. I'm going to kill the captain and the copilot."

A Lufthansa spokesman in Rome said there were six terrorists aboard the plane. Earlier accounts reported there were three or four.

In Frankfurt, a Lufthansa airline spokesman said the terrorists threatened in a conversation with the Iraqi ambassador to kill five hostages at sunrise Tuesday if "nothing has happened until then."

The Iraqi ambassador was one of six Arab diplomats in the control tower along with police and the two imprisoned Palestinians, who were brought to the airport to talk directly to the Arabs on the plane.

The self-styled leader of the commandos said during the night that "there are women on the plane, also children," the tower monitors reported. "If you want to see the women and children alive, then bring me the ambassadors. I want to exchange the women and children. Just bring me the ambassadors, and do it quickly."

Greek police expressed doubts that children were aboard. A high police official also said before the captain's report about his copilot that the Arabs had rejected demands to throw out the bodies of the dead and so there was no concrete evidence of the killings.

In Rome, 29 of the dead were killed in the attack on the Pan American plane and the 30th victim was a Roman policeman.

In addition to the three hostages police reported were killed in Athens, a fourth hostage was said to have died on the plane from wounds suffered earlier.

Before the initial deal was struck Monday to stop the slaughter, the tower sources quoted the captain of the hijacked Boeing 737 as saying: "They're shooting! They're shooting! They've killed another two!"

Later Monday night, the monitors quoted the captain:

"They've already killed four and they're not joking. Now they've got three women outside the cabin and their guns are pointed at them."

A Lufthansa spokesman in Rome said there were six terrorists aboard the plane. Earlier accounts variously reported there were three or four.

Witnesses said Greek commando units in full battle gear and armed with submachine guns moved into position around the commandeered jet as negotiations worked toward the eventual bargain of exchanging the two Palestinians for the remaining hostages.

The hijackers threatened to blow up the plane with the hostages inside if police tried to storm it.

The Arabs conducted their negotiations in Arabic. The interpreter in the control tower said the terrorists on the plane demanded that the Palestinians and two Arab ambassadors be brought to them in a car, and that a fuel truck be provided. All persons and vehicles approaching the plane were to be illuminated by spotlights, he said.

Police said 28 bodies were found on the Pan Am plane and one passenger died in a hospital. Most of the dead were unidentified, but four of the victims were identified as Moroccan government officials.

Whelan Said Gov. Exon's Pick

By DON WALTON

Star Staff Writer

Hastings attorney Gerald Whelan, a member of the State Board of Education, is Gov. J. James Exon's surprise choice for a running mate in the 1974 general election.

Although neither Exon nor Whelan would confirm that fact Monday, it was learned that the governor personally informed Democratic lieutenant governor prospects of his decision at a private meeting at the Governor's Mansion Sunday night.

Whelan has scheduled a news conference in Hastings Tuesday at 11 a.m., apparently to announce his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for lieutenant governor.

An endorsement from Exon presumably will follow closely on the heels of that announcement.

Whelan, 48, has served on the non-partisan State Board of Education since he kayaked incumbent John Wagoner of Grand Island in the 1970 election.

In 1960, he was the Democratic congressional nominee in the First District, losing to incumbent Republican Rep. Phil Weaver in the general election.

Exon's decision to tap the Hastings attorney as his preferred choice for the nomination of lieutenant governor ranks as a major political surprise. Whelan had not even been mentioned on a growing list of Democratic prospects which had stretched to 10.

Exon, who announced his decision to seek re-election at a Democratic gathering in Omaha Saturday, invited the lieutenant governor aspirants to the Mansion Sunday night.

There, according to information pieced together from several participants, the governor informed his guests of his decision to endorse Whelan.

Gerald Whelan

That decision, Exon told the prospects, should not preclude any of them from seeking the nomination if they wished to do so.

And if any of them ultimately emerged as the nominee over Exon's choice, the governor assured them, he would work with the winner in a spirit of cooperation.

Attending the meeting were State Highway Engineer Tom Doyle, Lincoln businessman Bill

Harris, State Sen. Frank Lewis of Bellevue, State Administrative Services Director Stan Matzke, gubernatorial aide Norman Otto, Kurt Rasmussen of Omaha and State Motor Vehicles Director John L. Sullivan.

All have indicated their interest in seeking the nomination. State Sen. Gary Anderson of Axtell was also invited, but unable to attend.

Exon's decision will not automatically hand the nomination to Whelan.

Democratic voters will pick the governor's running mate — assuming he wins renomination — at the primary election next May. Then the two nominees will run as a team in the general election, fulfilling a constitutional mandate that the governor and lieutenant governor be elected as a partisan team beginning next year.

Exon's endorsement is expected to remove a number of aspirants from the race and presumably will weigh heavily with Democratic voters in the spring.

Doyle, Matzke, Otto and Sullivan — all members of the Exon administration — are expected to step aside. Others may now join them on the sidelines, or seek other elective office in 1974.

But one or more of the prospects who met with the governor are likely to go ahead and seek the lieutenant governor nomination without Exon's blessing.

Rounding out the list of 10 Democrats who have said they might run are State Sen. Jules Burbach of Crofton and Omaha businessman Mike Jackson.

In Hastings, Whelan said he would make no announcement until his Tuesday news conference.

But, he acknowledged by telephone that "the governor and I have been in close contact for the last month and a very interesting and very flattering situation has developed."

"I will make my plans known Tuesday."

JUNIPERPERPER

The Elf Who Couldn't Do Anything Right

CHAPTER 6

By Bob Boyle

Santa and Juniperperper left the Superscopes building and again walked along the Crystal Path to Santa's home.

Once inside, Mrs. Claus said, "Well, Juniperperper, how did you enjoy your tour?"

"It was fine, Mrs. Claus," he said.

"Did you decide where you'll be working?" she asked.

"I think I would like the bicycle shop," he replied. "It seems like fun."

Santa said, "We'll decide tonight where you'll work, Juniperperper. But now let's have our lunch. How would you like to sound the lunch whistle?"

"I would love to, Santa," he replied. "But how do I do that?"

"Why you let the lunch whistle bird out of his cage," Santa laughed. "I guess you don't know about our lunch whistle bird. Come with me and I'll show you."

Juniperperper followed Santa across the living room and they went out into the sun parlor room. In one corner of the room stood a big cage and inside was the lunch whistle bird. The bird hopped over to the edge of the cage when he saw Santa coming.

"Hi there, Whistler," Santa said. "Ready to whistle the elves in for lunch?"

The bird nodded his head up and down.

Turning to Juniperperper, Santa said, "That means yes. Every day at noon we leave Whistler here out of his cage and he flies through that open passage up there. Then he'll fly around the toy factories, the stable and the superscopes room whistling his merry song. The elves know then that it's time for lunch."

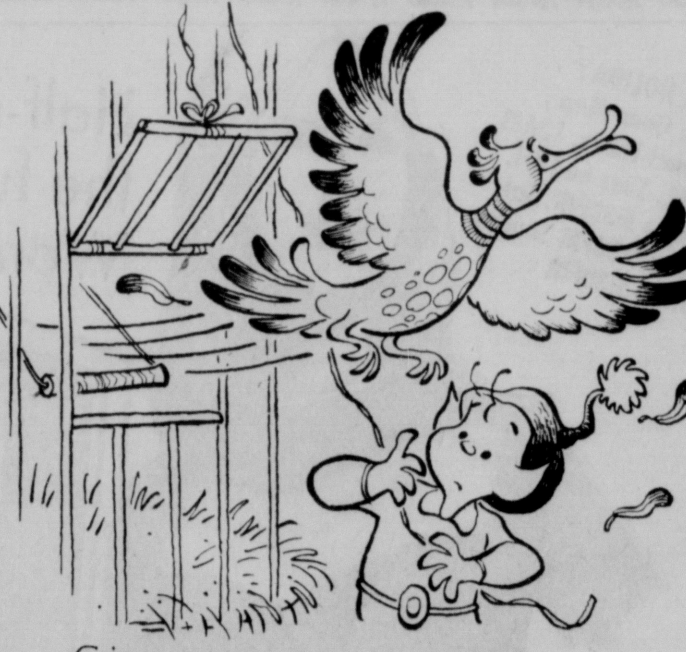

"If he whistles that loudly, Santa, doesn't he disturb you when he whistles in the sun parlor room?" Juniperperper asked.

"That's the secret of the lunch whistle bird," Santa explained. He never whistles inside. Only when he's flying around outside. Now, pull the cord which will open his cage door and watch him go."

Juniperperper did just that and the lunch whistle bird scooted out and went through the open passageway.

In seconds Juniperperper heard the bird whistling.

"Gee, he is loud, Santa," the elf said.

Simonsen

... And the lunch whistle bird scooted out.

"Stand back, Juniperperper," Santa laughed. "You'll soon see the other elves come rushing in for lunch."

The two looked out the back door and saw the long stream of elves head for the back kitchen door.

In turn, each would stand for a second and wipe his feet before entering. Mrs. Claus greeted each elf as he entered.

"Hello, boys, hello, did you have a good morning?" she said.

For lunch she served crispy fried chicken with Eskimo peas and toadland potatoes. For dessert the elves had snowball delights with icicle syrup.

"Gee whiz, Mrs. Claus," Juniperperper said. "That was a great meal."

"I'm glad you enjoyed it," she replied.

"Now, let's take a walk over to the plotting cabin," Santa said.

"What's that, Santa?" Juniperperper asked.

"That's where my plotting elves plot my course for Christmas eve," Santa explained.

"They decide the best route for me to take. If it is too foggy in England, say, I might start in Japan. Or, maybe I'll begin my rounds in Florida."

"The elves here keep a constant check on the weather so I won't run into very bad weather and not be able to complete my round."

"Without these elves here, I certainly could get lost."

"Gee, Santa, that must be hard work for these elves," Juniperperper said as they entered the plotting room.

"It is," Santa said. "These elves must be very good in arithmetic and star gazing. They work all year keeping charts on weather currents, snow storms and the like. How would you like to work here, Juniperperper?"

"Santa, I can't add two and two, so I don't think I would do very well here," Juniperperper said.

After leaving the plotting room, Santa and Juniperperper went to the sleigh room.

"Here's where my sleigh is kept," he said. "This group of elves take care of it. It's called 'North Pole One' you know, and it must be in tip top shape. It travels thousands and thousands of miles each Christmas Eve, and I can't have a runner falling off in mid-trip."

After their supper, Santa called the elves together in the big conference room and said, "Gentle elves, we're here to decide where our newest elf, Juniperperper, should work."

Santa turned to Juniperperper and said, "well, young elf, where would you like to work?"

"Gee, Santa," he replied. "I would work anywhere. But the best place I think would be the bicycle factory. I would love that."

"It's settled then, Juniperperper. Tomorrow you can start working in the bicycle shop," Santa said.

Exon To Base Budget On 13% Income Tax

By BOB GUENTHER

Star Staff Writer

Gov. J. James Exon said Monday the appropriations bill he will recommend to the Legislature will be based on projected revenue under a 13% state income tax instead of the 11% tax approved over his objections.

"Our budget recommendations will be based on what we had prescribed under a 13% income tax and a 2½% sales tax," Exon said in an interview.

That rate would allow the state to meet "its legitimate needs, despite the protestations of the Republican Party — including Sens. Carpenter and Marvel as their cheering section," he stated.

Exon said he will be delivering his annual budget message within the first 20 legislative days of the upcoming session. That budget is expected to total in the neighborhood of $280 million for operating expenses.

Senators' Responsibility

Exon's plans will put the responsibility of determining where the budget cuts should come squarely on the shoulders of Sen. Richard Marvel and the other 48 senators who last year accepted Exon's operating budget recommendations without a change.

The Republican majority on the State Board of Equalization in November voted to cut the state income tax from 13% to 11% after tax projections indicated that the state would have a $17 million surplus at the end of the fiscal year.

The cut was encouraged by Sens. Terry Carpenter of Scottsbluff and Marvel of Hastings, who made unprecedented pitches for the lower rate before the board.

The move was seen by some as a maneuver to outflank the self-professed fiscal conservative Exon, who is running for re-election next year, and to give his potential opponent, Marvel, a campaign issue.

Exon Opposed Cut

Exon opposed the tax cut, saying the income tax rate should stay where it is due to the economic uncertainty surrounding the fuel crisis. Although the state economic growth approached 20% this past year, Exon said the $17 million would be needed in case the growth rate drops below the 9% factor the surplus was based on.

Although he said he will not introduce a bill to up the income tax to its previous level, Exon said, "I will sign a bill to hold the line on taxes to the 13% income and 2½% sales levels that have been with this state since I took office."

The tax cut of 2% will mean more than a $25 million drop in general fund revenue for calendar 1974.

"I have talked with several legislative leaders who indicated they felt the action (of the State Board of Equalization) was irresponsible and said they are having legislation drafted to raise it back to 13%," Exon said.

Rome — Arab guerrillas attacked an American jetliner at Rome's International Airport, spraying it with submachinegun fire and hurling hand grenades into it. At least 29 people aboard were killed, and two persons outside the plane were shot dead. The guerrillas then hijacked a West German airliner to Athens with a number of hostages aboard and reportedly began executing them one by one to back their demands for the release of two Palestinian terrorists being held in Greece. Winter Storm Lambasts
Atlantic Coastal Regions

By United Press International

A blustery winter storm lambasted the Atlantic seaboard Monday, delaying thousands of New York commuters and snarling traffic from North Carolina to New England. Washington and Philadelphia had their deepest snow in two years.

A near-paralyzing concoction of snow, sleet, freezing rain and hail hit the New York City area, disrupting commuter train and subway-elevated service and triggering power failures. The New York and American Stock Exchanges and some commodity markets were forced to delay their openings.

A half-foot of snow closed all public schools in Washington, halted operations at National Airport and gave federal employees a "bonus" — two extra hours to report for work. Schools closed in dozens of cities and counties in Virginia. Many clubs and organizations canceled activities. Police said the storm caught most Virginians without snow tires and chains.

All state offices in Harrisburg, Pennsylvania's capital city, were closed when 10 inches of snow bogged streets. Schools were closed in Philadelphia and its suburbs.

Fresh snows off Lake Michigan hit Chicago and its suburbs. An estimated 43,000 rail commuters — and an untold number of persons who tried to drive — were delayed in getting to work.

The little town of Lindenhurst, Ill., north of Chicago, measured 28 inches of snow since Thursday and snow continued falling Monday.

In the West, heavy rains forced closure of all major highways in northern Idaho's Bonner County. All schools shut down and a deputy sheriff said: "If this keeps up, Santa Claus will have to come by boat."

The National Weather Service predicted up to a foot of snow in New England — possibly more in northern mountain areas, welcome news to ski buffs and resort operators.

Power blackouts hit many Connecticut and New York suburban communities. High winds knocked out power to some parts of Cranston and Warwick, R.I. a radio station tower toppled at Framingham, Mass., apparently as a result of icing.

Israel Assured Firm Backing

Jerusalem — Israeli officials said their country's agreement to participate in the Middle East Peace Conference in Geneva had been given in exchange for assurances from Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger that American support in the talks would be firm. (More on Page 2.)

Manpower Act OK'd By Conferees

Washington — House and Senate conferees, after reaching a compromise with the administration, gave final approval to a multi-billion dollar comprehensive Manpower Act that includes an emergency public employment program. The White House, which had planned to let the federal public employment die, is now supporting it because of fears the energy crisis will create a sharp rise in joblessness, administration officials explained. (More on Page 3.)

Delay For Exhaust Controls Voted

Washington — The Senate, voting 85 to 0, extended to 1976 the 1975 interim standards for pollution controls on automobiles. The bill providing the one-year delay in more stringent emission control devices was an amendment to the 1970 Clean Air Act. (More on Page 23.)

Tape Request Again Before Nixon

Washington — The Senate Watergate Committee's request for some of President Nixon's tape recordings and documents, refused first by Nixon and then by the federal district court in Washington, was again before the President. The Senate committee has been seeking tape recordings and documents since early last summer.

New Policy Bans Discrimination

Washington — The Federal Home Loan Bank Board made it a policy that savings and loan institutions may no longer discriminate against women or families dependent on a working wife's income in making mortgage loans. The board's policy statement is being accepted as binding by the savings and loan banks whose activities are regulated by the board.

Saxbe Confirmed By Senate

Washington — In a quick and friendly proceeding, the Senate voted to confirm Sen. William E. Saxbe of Ohio as attorney general. The vote was 75 to 10, with Saxbe voting "present." It occurred less than a week after President Nixon had officially submitted Saxbe's nomination to the Senate. (More on Page 3.)

London — The conservative government of Prime Minister Edward Heath abandoned its goal of economic growth Monday and chose instead a policy aimed at economic survival.

Faced with widespread labor disruptions and an energy crisis, the government announced the largest budget reduction in British history, imposed restrictions on consumer credit and said additional taxes would be levied on high-income earners and certain categories of real estate developers.

Official Predicts Difficult Settlement

LISBON (AP) — Israel and Egypt may agree quickly to separate their armies on the Suez front, but an over-all Middle East settlement may be harder to get than the Vietnam truce, a senior U.S. official said Monday.

Five years of bargaining preceded the 1972 Vietnam agreement. The official suggested the Middle East is even more complicated, with more countries and problems involved.

These assessments were offered as Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger flew to Portugal from Israel, where he won acceptance of agenda priorities for the Arab-Israeli peace conference scheduled to begin Friday in Geneva.

The Israeli accord nailed down terms reached earlier in a tour of six Arab states.

Kissinger met with Premier Golda Meir and other Israeli leaders for almost 11 hours Sunday and Monday to reach what he called "complete agreement on the procedures and terms of reference of the opening of the conference."

The conference will continue on a ceremonial basis for two or three days after the Friday opening. Then, following a year-end adjournment, it will resume in January with substantive matters coming to the fore, beginning with discussion of troop disengagement near Suez.

The Israelis are expected to be more disposed to substantive negotiations then, after their parliamentary elections scheduled for Dec. 31.

The official said the question of frontiers will be next. The anticipated sequence then calls for negotiation of Israel's security, guarantees to maintain peace, the Palestine refugee problem and the future of Jerusalem.

There is no indication that Israel is willing to bargain over Jerusalem but it has not ruled out abstract discussion, the official said.

Kissinger flew to Portugal — the first visit by an American secretary of state since 1962 — in a gesture of gratitude for the use of the Azores during the airlift of American arms to Israel during the October war.

"Portugal stood by its allies during the recent difficulties and we are extremely grateful," he said on arriving at Portela airport.

The secretary goes on to Madrid Tuesday to report to Spanish leaders on the North Atlantic Council and European Community meetings he attended last week in Brussels.

$5.5 Billion Foreign Aid Bill
OK'd; $2.2 Billion For Israel

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate passed on Monday a $5.5 billion foreign aid appropriation bill, including $2.2 billion for arms aid to Israel.

The Israel aid, for replenishment of equipment lost in the fighting and to offset Russian shipments to Arab nations, was made contingent upon separate passage of an authorization bill. This will be considered Tuesday by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee.

Committee Chairman J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., opposed the Israeli aid as undermining the Arab-Israeli peace talks now scheduled to begin in Geneva Friday.

Fulbright urged that action be deferred until next year to see what progress is made in the peace talks.

With the Israel rearmament money included, the bill is $1.3

million under President Nixon's budget and $300 million less than approved by the House last week.

The 55-31 Senate vote sends the measure to a Senate-House conference to adjust differences.

The Senate restored, by a 61-25 vote, a House-approved $36.5 million for assistance to Russian refugees, primarily Soviet Jews resettling in Israel.

The committee adopted by voice vote an amendment by Sen. Hubert H. Humphrey, D-Minn., to permit the administration to waive payment for up to $1.5 billion of the U.S. military equipment dispatched to Israel. The remainder would be on credit sales.

Duplicating action taken last week as part of the Defense Department appropriation bill, the Senate accepted by voice vote an amendment by Sen.

Thomas J. McIntyre, D-N.H., to forbid use of any funds for shipment of petroleum to Southeast Asia if the effect is to reduce supplies available to U.S. civilians.

Another amendment by Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., adopted by voice vote would forbid any military assistance to Chile.

House, Senate Conferees Agree On Manpower Act

©The New York Times

Washington — House and Senate conferees, after reaching a compromise with the administration, gave final approval Monday to a multi-billion dollar comprehensive Manpower Act that includes an emergency public employment program.

The White House, which had planned to let the federal public employment program die a slow death, is now supporting such a plan because of its fears that the energy crisis will create a sharp rise in joblessness, administration officials explained.

The administration also agreed to compromise on the public employment features of the bill, according to government sources, in order to win approval for the consolidation of the sprawling federal manpower programs into a more concentrated quasi revenue-sharing plan.

The bill, which reportedly will be funded at $1.8 billion in the fiscal year ending next June and close to $2 billion in fiscal year 1975, is expected to be voted upon by both houses before Christmas. Both administration and congressional experts said they expected quick passage of the legislation.

The bill approved by the conferees Monday reserves at least $250 million in fiscal year 1974 and $350 million in fiscal 1975 for a public, state and local employment program in areas where unemployment rates have reached 6.5% and could provide jobs on an emergency basis.

This amount is considerably less than the $1.4 billion that was appropriated for public employment in 1972 under the Emergency Employment Act. Assuming an expenditure of $6,000 or $7,000 per job, the $250 million supplemental appropriation for 1974 would create only about 40,000 jobs.

But it is considerably more than the administration had intended to expend on public employment. The White House, arguing that the unemployment was no longer a serious problem, blocked a renewal of the emergency employment act last year — providing no new funds for public employment programs.

Now the administration has reversed its position — in part at least because of its fears for the energy crisis — and is supporting a public employment plan, albeit scaled down.

In addition, the general provisions of the Manpower Act permit state and local authorities to use federal funds allocated them for public employment plans if they see fit to do so.

As part of the compromise, Democrats agreed to drop most of the specific categories of federal Manpower programs and substitute instead general programs drawn up and administered by state and local authorities.

Environmental Suit Device Blocked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court on Monday blocked a legal device that environmentalists and consumers hoped to use in place of costly, time-consuming individual legal actions.

The court ruled 6 to 3 in a damage suit by Vermont residents that each plaintiff would have to meet federal standards for bringing the action. Thus, the plaintiffs could not bring action for all persons in similar circumstances in one large suit.

The decision dealt with instances in which citizens of one state wished to sue a firm in another state for damages. Federal law required that at least $10,000 be at stake.

In their actions the high court agreed to decide:

— Whether a state disability insurance program in California unconstitutionally discriminates against pregnant women by refusing to compensate for wages lost due to pregnancy-related disabilities.

— Whether a postal workers union can sue to block mail delivery by private firms.

— Whether Corning Glass Works violated the federal Equal Pay Act by perpetuating a wage differential for night workers in a job category that formerly excluded women.

— Whether offenses connected to military service — and therefore punishable by military courts — should be interpreted broadly enough to include off-post sale of marijuana.

The court declined to reconsider its refusal in October to hear an appeal by former Texas congressman John Dowdy. Dowdy sought to overturn his conviction on three counts stemming from an alleged bribery scheme.

The court's decision in the environmental case was prompted by a suit filed in federal court by two couples, Keith and Valerie Zahn, and Charles and Marion Leazer, for themselves and some 200 other owners of lakefront land in the towns of Orwell, Shoreham and Bridgeport.

They charged that the International Paper Co. pulp and paper plant at Ticonderoga, N.Y., had polluted Lake Champlain with discharges.

The U.S. Circuit Court in New York held that the Vermont couples could sue because they claimed damages in excess of $10,000, but they could not sue on behalf of the other homeowners unless each claimed damages in that amount.

Snow Blankets Nation's Capital

A lone figure ascends the Capitol steps early Monday in the wake of the heavy storm that dumped from six to eight inches of snow on Washington, D.C. Only about half of the 300 youngsters from foreign countries made it through the snow to attend the annual

White House Christmas party for children of the diplomatic corps. First Lady Pat Nixon, opening the festivities, said she was sorry about the weather because "we look forward to this all year."

Senate OKs Saxbe's Nomination

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Monday confirmed President Nixon's nomination of Sen. William B. Saxbe, R-Ohio, to be attorney general.

Saxbe will succeed Elliot L. Richardson, who resigned the cabinet post Oct. 20 in a Justice Department upheaval triggered by the firing of Archibald Cox as special Watergate prosecutor.

A former attorney general of Ohio, Saxbe, 57, has at times turned his sharp tongue on Nixon himself although he generally has been an administration supporter.

His confirmation will permit Ohio Governor John J. Gilligan to appoint a Democrat to the Senate, but Saxbe said he does not plan to take over as attorney general before Jan. 4.

Before the vote on Saxbe's nomination, Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb., placed in the record correspondence intended to show President Nixon is aware of the claims to independence made by the new special Watergate prosecutor, Leon Jaworski.

HHH Gave Papers For Tax Deductions

Washington (UPI) — Hubert H. Humphrey and a large number of other prominent and even middle-echelon officials donated their papers as gifts on which they presumably did claim tax deductions, the Scripps-Howard News Service reported Monday.

Scripps-Howard staff writer Dan Thompson, who surveyed General Services Administration (GSA) records, said Humphrey's office confirmed his gift and said a tax deduction had been claimed.

"He is now preparing the figures and a statement," a Humphrey spokesman said.

Humphrey, now Democratic senator from Minnesota, was vice president from 1965 to 1969 and donated his personal papers from those years to the Minnesota State Historical Society.

Scripps-Howard said it obtained a GSA list of present and former public officials who have contributed their personal papers to the government in the last 10 years for inclusion in one or more of the seven presidential libraries supervised by GSA and the National Archives.

"While there was no indication that tax deductions were claimed under the tax provision which Congress abolished effective July 25, 1969," Scripps-Howard said, "those making the donations had the opportunity to do so and presumably did."

GSA records showed the late President Lyndon B. Johnson, vice president for three years of the Kennedy administration, donated his presidential and vice presidential papers in 1965, presumably claiming a tax deduction in 1965.

He also donated personal papers to the government in 1966, 1967 and 1968, all eligible for use as tax deductions.

A gift of President Dwight D. Eisenhower's papers was made June 27, 1969 — less than one month before the new regulation abolished tax deductions on such transactions.

His widow, Mrs. Mamie Eisenhower, donated papers to the government in 1966.

Scripps-Howard said the list included, in addition to Cabinet members and top presidential advisers, persons who served in relatively minor jobs, ranging from an associate director of the Bureau of Land Management under President Harry S. Truman to a director of the Federal Housing Administration under Johnson.

IN PERSPECTIVE

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

It could be described only as incredible that the federal government would consider agriculture for anything but No. 1 priority for fuel. Exactly what priority agriculture will receive has not as yet been determined but at one time it apparently was given a secondary status.

If there is anything that the nation must keep on a firm footing, it is agriculture. It seems simplistic to say it but the nation must have food before it has anything else. That the federal bureaucracy might not recognize this is evidence of the lack of understanding that prevails in this nation about agriculture.

We have become so accustomed to super-markets packed with all the food goodies we want that we have forgotten where it all comes from. There is no assembly line where the many products of agriculture are made. Despite all man's technological proficiency, only nature can give us the food we need to sustain ourselves.

We can develop better and better strains of seed and we can come up with improved mechanical means of planting and harvesting but in the end we must still plant in the ground and reap what water and sunlight finally bring forth for us.

It is believed that some day, if we wanted to work hard enough for it, we might be able to create human life in the laboratory. Yet, there is no substitute for the production of food in basically the same fashion that has been known to man throughout his civilized existence.

How we do it may change drastically over a period of time but what we do to feed the nation remains unchanged and will stay that way. Wild schemes have been hatched supposedly to meet almost all our needs, except in the area of food.

A chill in your home or an empty gas tank is one thing but a lack of food is quite another. First and foremost we must provide agriculture with the fuel essential to its operation and then other things follow according to their necessity.

But agriculture is not secondary to anything, not even the survival of the economy. If you have money but no food to buy, your money is worth nothing, simply because it could not keep you alive.

The fact that this needs to be pointed out may demonstrate the degree to which the American people have taken agriculture for granted. Agriculture as the very foundation of our lives seems to have been clouded in our minds by an expanding separation of rural and urban lives.

Some people seem to think that food comes from the super-market, period, or maybe a packer or a wholesaler. But the super-market, the packing house, the wholesale distributor, the processor and others are but a link in the system.

None of those middle institutions or individuals would even be in existence if farmers could not plant their seed and harvest their crops. But is typical of the American people to take such a basic matter for granted.

It is our tendency to take things for granted that has led us to our current energy difficulties. We simply never believed it in the past when anyone told us that a day of reckoning was coming for us.

If we ever have a day of reckoning in the area of food production, it will make the current difficulty look like a picnic. Food is an obvious No. 1 priority and that means fuel for the vast machinery of agriculture before you even talk about how much goes to other uses.

VIRGINIA PAYETTE

Finding An Answer From Frugal Amish

NEW YORK — They're trying to break it to us gently, but the melody is coming through loud and clear: We may work our way out of the energy crisis eventually, but to do it we're going to have to change our way of living.

"... and if that ain't enuf, we're gonna have to change the way we strut our stuff." (Sorry; we've all been under a strain lately.)

But the words of the old song are telling it true. The fuel crunch means our affluent life is about to come to a screeching halt.

That's what the experts are hinting at in their ponderous proclamations on the wobbling economy. And when they say "we," you know who they're talking about, don't you?

The folks who are going to have to adopt "new life styles," as the pundits put it, are the middle-income families... the office workers... the blue-collar crews on the assembly lines. In other words, the little guy.

There won't be any government edicts to force him into cutting corners. There won't have to be. The raging shortage of everything will simply push prices so high he won't be able to afford any frills.

What's happening is that we're slipping into a recession that, if it were played by the rules, just wouldn't happen.

Any self-respecting recession comes during a time of surplus: too many things for sale and not enough customers wanting to buy them. That's when the bottom falls out. Or so they told us back there in Economics 101.

But now there's a shortage of just about everything EXCEPT customers. Which should mean a booming prosperity. And maybe it will, for a while. But it can't last, the experts say, because industries can't get materials to keep producing what people want to buy.

The solution, ironically, is what most Americans have always advocated in preference to government regulation: the free market system. Not rationing... not price controls... not hopped-up federal spending. Just business according to what the traffic will bear.

That, of course, pushed prices up. And this does two things: It stimulates new production and it limits demand to people who can afford costly goods.

Prices of heating fuel and gasoline, for instance, will go high enough to encourage oil companies to drill for new sources. This, in time, will solve our energy crisis and the shortages that stem from it.

But it means that only the rich folks will live in new houses with warm rooms, drive all they please, and maintain vacation homes and expensive hobbies.

The rest of us will be scrambling to pay for the old house we've already got... feed our families... and keep up with the gas, electric and telephone bills (which are going sky-high because of the energy crisis).

And we'll do this because, if we don't let the free market get the economy back on the track, there won't be enough jobs around.

What we need to do, looks like, is take a few lessons from the Amish, who hardly even know there is an energy crisis. Following their religious beliefs, they have no telephones, no electricity, no motor vehicles, no indoor plumbing and no running water. They heat and cook with firewood. And their horsepower comes from oats and corn, which they grow themselves.

There must be a happy medium in here somewhere.

'I Think It Just Came And Went'

Extremes Not Acceptable

It is being rather widely claimed that the American people would now accept government actions in behalf of the petroleum and other industries that would not have had a chance prior to the energy shortage. Included in such favorable action would be tax incentives to spur production of all the natural resources we need to get the economy back to normal.

Something of this approach is the stated goal of the administration in Washington. The objective of our energy control program is to keep industry healthy and thereby assure an adequate level of employment.

Thus, it is hoped that the efficiency of energy use we need to make can be made in the daily living habits of the American people rather than at the expense of industrial production.

This is all true but only up to a point. There is little question that government interference in private business has had some harmful effects. We have exercised more control over the private economy than has been good for it and we are paying a penalty for that now with all the shortage in the market place.

But a private enterprise system that turned away from excessive control to economic exploitation would be digging its own grave. We do not believe that the American people want petroleum products, for instance, regardless of the price.

The American people do not want the development of an industrial empire that recognizes no restraints upon the level of its profits or that fails to assume its fair share of the burden of governmental support. A free or highly favorable tax ride for industry at the expense of the average wage-earner would not be a popular development.

This does not mean that the tax system cannot be used somewhat more extensively than it has to stimulate or motivate capital investment but we need in such an approach to avoid the extremes that, in the opposite direction, helped get us into the present difficulty. A free economy that widens the gap between rich and poor will find its freedom pretty short-lived.

Surprise — Exon Running

Surprise, surprise — Gov. J. James Exon is going to seek re-election. Well, not quite. The governor has said he is going after another four-year term but the announcement surprised no one.

It does, however, officially clear the air. It would be no surprise, either, if Exon ended up victorious at the polls next November, for he is one of the strongest candidates the Democrats have produced in a good long time.

One could cite at least six general areas where Exon will point to this record for continued support of the electorate. Heading his list will undoubtedly be fiscal conservatism and he cannot honestly be challenged on that score.

There simply is no question that the governor has held the line on taxes, whether or not you want to debate tax rates at certain given times in history. His administration has been far more conservative than that of his Republican predecessor.

Additionally, Exon will point to a new state personnel system, community-based mental health programs, industrial development, highway construction and penal reform as areas of particular achievement during his four years in office. These will not all go unchallenged by the GOP by any means but Exon will build an effective campaign upon them.

If, as rumored, Hastings Attorney Jerry Whalen becomes Exon's lieutenant governor running-mate, the governor will be tough to beat. Whalen is an articulate, able and well known figure who would lend a lot of support to the Exon candidacy.

Republicans, of course, will not let this top state job go by default but they will be hard pressed to beat the incumbent office-holder. Their problem will be to come up with strong and clear issues on which they can attack the governor and which have solid meaning with the voters.

A spirited campaign can be expected with the early odds favoring Governor Exon.

Watch That Guarantee

New York — Cautious optimism is trickling back from Secretary Kissinger's traveling party in the Middle East. But this seems primarily to reflect the hope that once the Geneva peace conference gets down to business after its opening this week, some Arab oil might start flowing again to the United States and other Western nations.

That is only superficially what the peace conference is about. On its intrinsic subject — peace in the Middle East — only the fact that the conference is being held at all represents much tangible progress. A true Arab-Israeli peace is still a long way off, at the end of a hard and dangerous road.

The United States, at least, can afford to be more patient than current oil-crisis headlines may suggest. In 1972, this country imported only about 4 per cent of its crude oil consumption from the Middle East; thus, whatever the total American shortfall of oil supplies this winter — no one in office seems to be sure, and the figures are constantly being changed — only a small proportion of it, easily redeemed by conservation measures, can be traced to the Arab oil embargo.

Europe, which got 72 per cent of its 1972 oil supplies from Arab wells, and Japan — nearly 80 per cent — are in a different situation, and one that cannot be ignored by American diplomacy. But the limited impact of the Arab embargo on the United States does not provide sufficient reason for Americans to begin clamoring for a quick settlement in the Middle East, at whatever expense to the security of Israel and the prospects for a stable, long-term peace.

Exactly what will constitute such a peace has to be painstakingly worked out at Geneva and through other diplomatic forums and channels. There can be no real shortcut to it, even if Europe and Japan are feeling a painful oil pinch; and hard experience suggests that there is one formula of which Americans ought to be wary at least to the point of demanding thorough deliberation.

That is the idea of an ironclad American guarantee of Israel's security and survival. The hawkish Moshe Dayan has pointed out that Israel can hardly be expected to rely on such a device for its very existence, and a guarantee probably could allay such fears only if accompanied by an American military presence in the Middle East. But if it were to take that form, then an American commitment more binding than any ever given to South Vietnam would have been undertaken, and in an area of demonstrable Western interest (as opposed to the devious "vital interest" of the West in Indochina), where, nevertheless, the circumstances of war or peace would not really be in American hands.

That is precisely the kind of opened, possibly uncontrolled military commitment in a volatile situation that Vietnam should have taught us to avoid. This is not to say that there should not be strong American support for Israel, or American participation in sensible peace-enforcing machinery. It is to say that the idea of an American "guarantee" ought to be carefully examined for its potential consequences — not just just for Israeli security but for American military involvement and Soviet reaction to that.

Nevertheless, it may well be that some form of external guarantee to Israel ultimately will have to be part of a settlement. For if the Yom Kippur war proved anything, it proved — it seems, in fact, to have been designed to prove — that for the Israelis to cling stubbornly to the

GEORGE C. THOSTESON, M.D.

To Your Good Health

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am in love with this big sweet guy and I would marry him tomorrow except one thing is driving me crazy. He snores. We both have been married before and he says his ex-wife got used to it and so could I. I'm afraid I can't. My ex-husband snored occasionally and I couldn't stand it then. My boy friend snores every night and loud. We can't even go to a walk-in movie because he falls asleep and snores so loud it is embarrassing. So we usually go to drive-ins where he can snore peacefully. He tells me to wake him at night, but five minutes later he is snoring again. I have tried ear plugs but I could still hear everything. He says he is physically well and normal and nothing wrong with him. Is there any hope for me? — M. M.

I can't resolve your question of whether to marry him. All I can do is tell you what I know about snoring — which has been called "a problem of the listener," since the snorer seldom hears himself.

You've encountered two snorers; there are about 30 million others.

Technically, snoring results from vibration of the soft tissues of the nasopharynx. They relax with sleep and flutter with each passing breath. There's little the snorer can do of his own volition.

However, tell your healthy guy that about half of the snorers can be cured and another third helped.

There are several contributing causes. Obesity is one. Fat folks snore more than lean ones. Defects in the nose may contribute to obstruction of the airway — polyps, crooked nasal septum, enlarged turbinates. Congestion in the nose from chronic infection or allergy may be involved.

Position sometimes is a factor — a sleeper on his back is more likely to snore, but an accomplished snorer can do it on his side. Or, as you know, sitting up in the movies.

It is estimated that 300 devices have been put on the market to combat snoring. Many were cumbersome, many ineffective. I don't know of any worth recommending.

So what can you do? If your feller is fat, urge him to reduce. That's good for longevity and happiness anyway. Try jabbing him in the ribs to make him roll over. In any event, tell him to have his nose and throat checked by a specialist. It sometimes helps, if a snorer has false teeth, to remove them before he goes to sleep.

Good guys may be hard to find the second time around and few are perfect, so have him check on the things that we know can often alleviate snoring.

Dear Doctor: What are the symptoms of a blood clot in a leg? What do you have to do to clear this up? — G.P.

The symptoms of such a clot — pain and discoloration or an extreme pallor — would be quite evident, to the point where I think you would have been forced to see your doctor.

In any event, such a condition could not be self-treated. It is what is known in medicine as "an emergent" situation, one that must be treated with emergency measures.

If from my description, you think you have a clot, you had best get yourself to a doctor quickly.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Two years ago my doctor prescribed 12 calcium pills a day for me.

When I ask him if that isn't too much, he says, "You are doing fine, so just continue." I wonder if this amount of calcium could damage my kidneys or bladder? I am 68 and also taking thyroid pills. — E.B.

At your age, a great many people are lacking in sufficient calcium and quite a few need moderate thyroid medication. The calcium is not going to harm kidneys or bladder, and I think you are wasting nervous energy by this kind of worrying.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I've read more and more lately about the shots to dry up varicose veins. How good a method do you think this is? What is injected? My left leg is the only one marked, and it tires more easily, too. Will any doctor give you these shots if you ask? Do support hose help or are they just a waste of money? — Mrs. P.R.

Injectations will serve sometimes — depending on how severe the varicosity is. A sclerosing solution is used — it "dries up" or solidifies the blood in a stagnant vein, thus closing it off. Sometimes blood works a passageway through, in time, and then the trouble is still there.

Your best course is to have a surgeon decide whether injection is probably going to be helpful for you, or whether it would be better to use the tried and reliable method of removing the veins.

Support hose will make you more comfortable temporarily but will not prevent or correct varicose veins.

Dr. Thosteson welcomes all reader mail, but regrets that, due to the tremendous volume received daily, he is unable to answer individual letters. Readers' questions are incorporated in his column whenever possible.

We Americans are just beginning to experience some of the hardships brought upon us partly by the Arabian oil embargo. Some of us think of such an embargo as blackmail.

Yet for several years America has been practicing a practically total embargo against shipment of vitally needed supplies to our own small neighbor, Cuba, thus lowering their standard of living and virtually forcing them to rely upon Russia for survival.

Such practices have a habit of backfiring against those who initiate them. America is in a position to help rectify both these situations and with happy results for all concerned. We can see how if we try, but it will not be through reprisals.

At the main book check-out counter at Love Library, University of Nebraska, there is one holiday sign. It says "Merry Interim and Happy New Year." The customary reading of such a sign would be "Merry Christmas and Happy New Year," but "Interim" has been substituted for "Christmas" and Christmas is mentioned nowhere in sight, this being the only sign.

It is regrettable that at a time when most of the better values are under attack, officials of one of our chief public enterprises should choose to put down and sabotage Christmas and the Christian ethic on which Christmas is founded. I say "official" because this sign is in one of the most prominent locations on the campus and can hardly escape notice and knowledge of the head people at Love Library and probably the head people at the university. It is not a sign put up by underlings in an obscure place and unknown to officials.

True Meaning

Raymond, Neb.

I have just spent a most enjoyable evening at Raymond Central High School listening to the Christmas program. I have lived here only 16 months and this is the second Christmas program for which they are to be praised.

The instructors are to be commended for their selections of music to be played by orchestra or sung by chorus or special groups.

It is so reassuring to know that the Christmas season isn't Santa,

Rudolph or presents to all people, but that some remember the real meaning of Christmas — the event that brought it all about, the birth of Jesus Christ, the Son of God.

Take nativity scenes out if you will, ban any mention of Jesus from programs, school or other, if you will, but you will never obliterate the true beginning and meaning of the day we are soon to commemorate — Christmas.

The music was excellent, the words of the songs were refreshing and uplifting. All the participants are to be congratulated for a program well done.

Down The Line

Blair, Neb.

Billions of tax-loophole dollars have been siphoned away from equalizing the burdensome tax load on the middle-class taxpayer by the well known oil depletion allowance. Ostensibly this tax windfall for the big oil barons was designed to go towards exploration for new oil reserves and the building of more refineries. But was this where it went? We can be the judge now. Actually most of it went to swell the coffers of the worldwide wealthy oil people, and not for what it was intended.

Our Senators Hruska and Curtis have voted right down the line for the oil depletion allowance and other subsidies for the rich. And we continue to vote right down the line for them. Little wonder that we are held in such low esteem in the eyes of many fellow Americans. There are few so blind as those who will not see.

Now we are going to pay through the nose for what we thought we had already paid for, in full. Who can deny that oil runs this country and that Hruska and Curtis are bought and paid for like the majority of our elected representatives in Washington, D.C.?

A funny: Thanksgiving weekend, they had a gasoline war going on in Columbus, Nebraska, with gasoline selling for 39.9 cents a gallon.

United States Still Far Ahead Of Other Countries In Freedom And Opportunities

By ROBERT PETERSON

We do a lot of griping about our freedom and opportunities. But the United States is far ahead of other nations when it comes to freedom of the individual to become almost anything he wishes.

The other evening I talked with a perfume executive in New York who immigrated here from France when he was past 40. Despite his age and language difficulties he seized opportunities at hand and developed an extremely successful business career.

"When I arrived," he told me, "I could hardly believe that you permitted people to go into any kind of work they wished. In France and throughout the continent it's still customary for a young man to follow in his father's footsteps. Established merchants don't welcome competition from newcomers, and business regulations impose so much red tape that it's extremely difficult to launch a new business."

"It seems remarkable to me that in the U.S. anyone who wants can start a restaurant, grocery store, or perfume shop. Or if one wants to become a pharmacist or lawyer all you need is the mental ability and money for tuition. In France you need connections."

"In Europe it's difficult for average young people to go to college. There are stringent and difficult exams to be passed and fewer colleges. Children from average families have a rather slim chance. But in the U.S. there are all kinds of work-education programs, student loans, grants, fellowships and scholarships that bring a college education within easy reach of nearly any student."

"When I came to America I was entranced by American efficiency. In France most businessmen seem to enjoy the complexities of traditional methods and firmly resist changes. And when they've made enough money they're generally glad to retire. But in America we are enthusiastic about new ideas, and instead of seeking retirement many prefer to continue working."

He said that the average Frenchman views work as an unfortunate necessity. He goes to his job rather reluctantly, he takes two or three hours for lunch, slips away from his desk early on Friday so he can have a long weekend and can hardly wait for his annual holiday.

"But in the U.S. we find work so gratifying that it is not unusual to see men running to work and going for years without a vacation."

"In the U.S. we admire a man who starts with little and makes a great deal of money. But in France there's a certain scorn or resentment when someone from humble origin makes a great financial success. Business has never had the fascination for Frenchmen that it seems to have for Americans. Perhaps it's because it's so much easier to operate in the U.S. with its fewer restrictions and complications."

"Of course I still love France," he concluded. "But I've been a U.S. citizen for years now and am proud to be a part of this incredible and prosperous free enterprise system. But I am sometimes shocked at the things Americans say about their country, for I really believe that here — as nowhere else in the world — hard work and determination will permit just about anyone to achieve whatever he really wants to accomplish."

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

☆ By SIDNEY OMARR ☆

Forecast For Tuesday

Leo persons should take special care when lifting heavy objects. The back is a vulnerable area for these natives and they know it and can tell you about it. Leo wants to impress, to wave aside flaws or difficulties. Very often, these natives will not admit injury or adversity and this creates complications. Leo can be gallant and foolishly "brave." Leo puts on a show and this quality is magnified where opposite sex enters picture.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Give attention to proposals, partnerships, joint efforts. Renew harmony at home. Take back seat, at least temporarily. Let others reveal their plans, show their hands. Be diplomatic — maintain even pace. You gain by maintaining low profile.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20): Study Aries message. Overcome temptation to act in haste. Be analytical. Refine and perfect techniques. You may be drawn to metaphysical areas. Key is to separate fact and fantasy. Don't fall for sob story.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): What has been held in abeyance comes surging to forefront. This is "crunch" time. Means you meet pressure, responsibility on collision course. Capricorn could play significant role. Love, emotions are spotlighted. If single, you may be asked to make a commitment.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Finish rather than begin — spread influence. Study another language. Find ways of distributing ideas, products. Aries asks direct questions. Be frank. Forthright approach about home, property, basic values will work to your advantage.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Ideas should be tried — quickly. This is no time for procrastination. Be independent. Highlight originality, fresh approach in dealing with neighbors, relatives. Another Leo flatters you but there could be ulterior motive.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Emphasis is on consolidating, collecting and evaluating. Build for future. Get best interest rates. Make inquiries — and wait for answers. Means don't permit uncouth persons to push you aside. Insist on rights to exact letter of the law.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): Accent versatility and remember diet resolutions. You may be active socially and carefree about eating, drinking habits. Sagittarius is likely to be involved. Cycle is high and you get what you ask for — be sure you ask for what you can handle.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): What you are looking for is being deliberately hidden. Know it and act accordingly. No one intends to give you anything without a price. Be sure you can afford what you get — be mature and, if necessary, cynical. Look behind the scenes for hidden motives.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Be prepared for change, variety and travel. You will be in proximity of restless individuals. You will be asked direct, indiscreet questions. Your ability to think on your feet will be tested. Romance is very much in picture.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): You draw to you persons born under Taurus and Libra. You are more sensitive than usual. You impress superiors. Your prestige swings upward. One who can pull strings makes an offer. Be cooperative without being weak.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Deal with the abstract. Means ride with the tide. What appears strictly symbolic may contain rich kernels of truth. Know it and don't be bewildered by one who seems to talk and move in circles. Pisces, Virgo individuals could be involved.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): One who takes charge of money, special accounts and tax obligations should be center of your attention. Take nothing for granted. Investigate. Delve beneath surface indications. Don't dismiss any subject without prior investigation.

IF TODAY IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are sympathetic to underdog, have proclivity for politics, law and medicine. You may be a world traveler and you constantly hunger for knowledge. You can be a pussycat or a tiger — depending on how much others permit you to have your own way. You will move or make adjustment at home in 1974 — November and February of that year will be most significant months.

Auto Fatalities Have Dropped, Survey Shows

Washington (UPI) — Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., said auto fatalities have dropped up to 30% in four states having 50 mile an hour speed limits.

Eagleton said his national survey showed a clear decline in Iowa, Massachusetts, Vermont and Washington, where the speed limit has been in effect more than 26 days.

Freezing Weather Slows Field Work

Freezing weather has greatly reduced the amount of field work except for the harvesting of corn, according to the weekly crop report of the State-Federal Division of Agricultural Statistics.

A limited amount of harvesting occurred last week as farmers are trying to finish up the corn harvest, which is now over 95% complete. This is about normal for this time of year but ahead of the 85% a year ago.

Moisture content of the grain is 19%, the same as last week, but 3 points below last year. Winter wheat continues to be in good condition. Snow supplied moisture and cover for the wheat.

Livestock are generally in good condition but cool weather has caused some problems for livestock producers. A few reports were received of sickness in calves.

Many cattle are still gleaning stalk fields where feed is not covered by snow. Supplemental feeding is becoming more active. Range, pasture, hay and forage supplies are about average.

Woman's Death Blamed On Defective Furnace

The death of Mrs. Betty A. Sabin in a house at 2226 C St. Saturday from carbon monoxide poisoning was apparently caused by a defective furnace, according to police reports Monday.

Police said an exhaust pipe in the furnace was dislodged and that there were exhaust leaks in the heat chamber and another pipe. The defects were discovered by a Cengas inspector.

Three children found unconscious in the home where Mrs. Sabin was babysitting were still hospitalized in Bryan Memorial Hospital Monday for varying degrees of carbon monoxide poisoning.

Darold Johnson Jr., 7, was listed in "serious" condition and Terrence Sabin, 9, and Toby Sabin, 8, were listed in "satisfactory" condition.

Mrs. Sabin and the children were discovered by Darold Johnson Sr. when he returned home. Mrs. Sabin's address is 2298 Sheldon.

Conservation Not Enough By Itself — McCollister

Washington (UPI) — Rep. John Y. McCollister, R-Neb., said Monday conservation alone will not solve the long-range energy problem suffered by this country.

"Conservation efforts will help see us through critical periods, but they are not solutions in themselves," he said.

McCollister said the United States is over-dependent on oil and that the major effort now should be to develop new sources of energy.

ty to develop workable ways to utilize geothermal and solar energy, along with finding ways to extract oil from shale and to produce gas from coal."

He said he is encouraged at the response of Nebraskans and all Americans to the pleas to save energy, and again expressed his opposition to rationing as a possible solution to the energy crunch.

"Rationing probably would be unfair and cause more problems than it was designed to solve," he said.

"A push in this area would stimulate our economy and encourage our industrial communi-

LTS To Receive Additional Diesel

The Lincoln Transportation System has received notification of additional fuel allotments which will allow LTS to restore much of its curtailed service and routes.

Finance Director James Mallon said Monday a letter from the Federal Office of Oil and Gas to Continental Oil Co. authorizes the sale of 384,000 gallons of No. 1 diesel fuel to Lincoln.

Mallon said that amounts to 32,000 gallons per month — the amount of gallons per month LTS was consuming before recent cutbacks.

The new allocations are to begin in January, Mallon said.

However, he pointed out that the Office of Oil and Gas states the increased allotments are only temporary, interim allocations.

Last month LTS and the City Council were forced to cut back service by 40% to match severely curtailed fuel allotments.

Those cutbacks, which have been in effect one month, included the elimination of Sunday service, elimination of the Crosstown route, elimination of service after 6:15 p.m. leaving the downtown and reduction of service on some routes and during non-peak hours.

Mallon said the LTS Board is meeting Thursday and will discuss the restoration of service. In the past, LTS Board members have discussed extending service to new areas, such as to the Cornhusker Hwy. area, instead of restoring service to areas where the buses have been minimally patronized.

Treatment Of Indian Alcoholics Endorsed

City lawmakers Monday directed that a resolution be prepared for next week's agenda endorsing a proposed Indian alcoholics treatment program.

The request for $5,900 in city funds to help finance the program came from Louis Perdomo, director of the Lincoln Indian Center.

A grant application seeking federal funds for the project will be routed through the Law Enforcement Assistance Administration, according to Leighton Wessel, police community relations officer.

Wessel, a member of the center's advisory committee, reported that while Indians constitute only 3% of Lincoln's population, they constitute 14% of those arrested for intoxication by the police department.

700-800 Indians

Perdomo reported there are between 700 and 800 Indians who are permanent residents of the city.

And 65% of those Indian adults are alcoholics or have drinking problems, Wessel reported. He defined an alcoholic as one whose drinking patterns influence his life style.

He noted that existing treatment programs in Lincoln do not reach the Indian population and that such treatment centers run by white people have a low success ratio of those Indians they do reach.

The plan proposes to hire three Indian counselors who will work with Indians through halfway houses and through Lincoln General Hospital's Chemical Dependency Unit.

Credibility "We feel there is a need for this program," Perdomo said, who he contended would help create credibility for treatment programs already under way in Lincoln.

The total grant application will be for $59,000. The city's share will be 10% of that, or $5,900 the first year.

The second year the federal government would provide 75% of the funds, the third year, 50% and the fourth year the city would pick up the entire tab, Wessel said.

The grant application is scheduled to go to the Region II Crime Commission for approval in January and to the State Crime Commission in February. The target start-up date is March 15.

Councilwoman Helen Boosalis said that while she had no criticism of the program, "It doesn't go far enough, but it's a start."

$100,000 Spent To Give Agnew Aides, Offices

Washington (UPI) — The General Accounting Office (GAO) disclosed Monday that close to $100,000 in tax money has been spent to provide former Vice President Spiro T. Agnew with offices, aides and other special privileges since his resignation.

In a preliminary report, the GAO reported $95,406 in costs through Dec. 4. The total outlay would jump well over $100,000 if the cost of Secret Service protection, which the GAO could not obtain, was added.

In a report to Rep. John Moss, D-Calif., who requested the inquiry, Comptroller General Elmer B. Staats said the Secret Service has refused to answer a request for detailed data and that attempts to elicit more information on Agnew staff was blocked, at least temporarily, by the White House.

Getting There Is Half The Fun

A WINTRY RIDE . . . to school is in store for Wayne Joe (left) and Clinton Broyles.

There is, if you haven't heard, an energy crisis.

However, while most of us mumble and grumble about frigid room temperatures and gasoline-less Sundays, four young Crawford residents are happily doing their bit to help alleviate the problem.

Each weekday morning, when the time comes to leave for classes at Dawes County Dist. 25 School, Jerry and Wayne Gibbons and Wayne Joe and Clinton Broyles forego the convenience of a ride in a heated car.

Instead, they pack their lunches into shoulder bags and climb aboard their horses for a cross-country trek — a la "the good old days" when hayburners outnumbered horseless carriages.

Although they don't have too far to go — the Broyles live one mile from school, and the Gibbons 1 1/4 miles — they have to get up a little earlier than their car-borne peers in order to arrive before the 9 a.m. tardy bell rings.

"They ride to school most of the time — except in the most extreme weather," said Wayne's and Jerry's mother, Mrs. Harold Gibbons. And she added that the horses have been quite an attraction — especially at first — for the five other children who attend school at Dist. 45.

While their masters are indoors with their books, teacher and classmates, the horses contentedly munch hay near the school building.

"Our children have fenced off a corner of the school yard" for the horses, Mrs. Gibbons explained. Wayne's and Clinton's horses wait for the ride home in the corner of a pasture which belongs to their parents, Mr. and Mrs. Warren Broyles — and which, conveniently, adjoins the school yard.

In addition to making sure their mounts are well-fed, the young horsemen have other chores — such as raising the flag and pumping water — which they share with their classmates.

And when school is not in session and the four boys are looking for fun, what do they do? Ride their horses, of course!

He Gets What He Deserves

DEAR ABBY: A husband complained because his wife came to bed every night with her hair wrapped in toilet paper and she covered the whole thing with a ridiculous-looking nightcap.

Well, so do I? But I have no reason to go to bed looking pretty. My husband has such a pot gut, I couldn't get within a foot of him if I wanted to, which I certainly do not. You see, he rarely bathes, and he always comes to bed with a sour beer breath. I think you get the picture.

A few years back I found someone who could have made my life complete, but I gave him up, hoping my marriage could be saved. What a fool I was!

In the meantime, I keep my hair looking nice, and if I ever get another chance, I won't pass it up.

MISSED THE BOAT

dear abby

DEAR MISSED: Thank heavens all boats aren't alike. Look what this loveboat has to say on that subject:

DEAR ABBY: My little filly takes a bath every night, sprays herself sweet, and puts on a fancy nightgown, but you can bet her hair is always wrapped in toilet paper and covered with a silly little nightcap. But who cares? I don't look at her in bed.

The next morning she showers, puts on lipstick, whips off the toilet paper can cap, and her hairdo is perfect. She's only protecting my interests because we can always go out at a moment's notice or invite people in. We've never had to miss anything because my wife's hair wasn't right.

We've been married for 27 years and she's never gone to bed with rollers, which are worse than nightcaps. I keep telling my little filly, she's not getting older, she's just getting better.

CHARLIE

DEAR CHARLIE: You're beautiful.

DEAR ABBY: Who told you that watchdogs aren't taxed in Italy? They are, only less.

For a "luxury" dog, which can be anything from a mutt to a Pekinese, the tax is $20, but the dog must have absolutely no function such as a guard, shepherd or retriever.

"Functional" dogs are taxed only $8 a year. However, nothing keeps dogs off people's property, so if your reader objects to having dogs on his lawn, tell him to move into an apartment.

DOG LOVER IN ROME

DEAR DOG LOVER: My authority on canine law in Italy is Doug Fleming of the Rome Daily American. I obviously was barking up the wrong tree when I consulted him. You seem to be well boned up on the subject. Are you interested in fielding an occasional inquiry?

DEAR ABBY: With the cost of living up so high, and four children to support, plus the fact that we have had layoffs and illness in our family this last year, my husband and I decided that we would not exchange Christmas gifts with the relatives.

We sent letters to all our relatives explaining the situation. Since then we have had one set of grandparents and two sisters tell us that they still intend to buy Christmas gifts for our children.

Would it be proper for us to refuse the gifts?

DEAR PUZZLED: No. Accept them graciously. There is joy in giving as well as in receiving, so why deny that pleasure to those who want to give?

CONFIDENTIAL TO "WONDERING IN ATLANTA": It's only a wild guess, but it's the rare 52-year-old man who leaves a marriage — even a dull one — to "try the fun of bachelorhood." A man that age who wants a divorce usually has someone waiting in the wings.

Problems? You'll feel better if you get it off your chest. For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

'Extended' Family Vital To Blacks

Chicago — Black family organization was not destroyed by the pressures of slavery but persists in a workable form that stems from its African origins.

An earmark of the "extended" Black family, according to scientific papers, presented at the ninth international congress of anthropological and ethnological sciences, is that children are often raised by adults who are not their biological parents — they may be relatives or other adults or older children.

Joyce Aschenbrenner, one of the authors who provided background material for a discussion, observed that the "prevailing view concerning the black family is that it suffered destruction under the conditions of slavery and never recovered from the devastating experience."

Prof. Aschenbrenner, an anthropologist at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville, and several other authors contested that view. They said the black family structure survived slavery and still has similarities to its origins.

The papers said extended American Black families — which include not only legal relatives but also "adopted" members — provide economic help to family members, co-operate in child raising and aid family members in resettling in distant cities.

This system, which in general provides group or "kinship" support for Blacks, has been operating ever since slavery days but has been overlooked by social scientists, one of the papers said.

That paper, by three authors from the University of Illinois, said Black reluctance to discuss the family system was part of the reason it wasn't discovered by scientists.

Dennis A. Frate, a University of Illinois research assistant who is a co-author of the paper, said discovery of the extended American Black family system is a recent trend in anthropology. His co-authors are Dimitri B. Shimkin, professor and anthropologist at Illinois, and Gloria J. Louis, a student there.

Another paper that added to the extensive kinship picture reported that one-fifth of the children studied in welfare families in a midwest city were living with "kin" not their mothers or fathers.

The author of that research, Carol B. Stack of Boston University, said a number of different women may act as substitute mother of one child, some of them being "just slightly older than the child himself."

Prof. Aschenbrenner, summarizing her own research and the views of other authors, contended the family system is a primary source of a "distinctive value system of Black Americans," including a form of humanism.

She defined the humanism as including "a recognition of essential human characteristics — experience, feelings, a sense of personal worth — as contrasted with an instrumental evaluation in terms of success, competence, 'personality.'"

Prof. Aschenbrenner said Blacks not only derive deep-seated personality values from their extended-family heritage but attempt to preserve them while competing in the success-oriented American culture.

Engagement Announced

Miss Jean Leshner

Mrs. Ward Garold Leshner of Fairbury announces the engagement of her daughter, Jean Catherine, to Patrick Lee Willis, both of Madison, Wis.

An early summer wedding in Madison is planned by the couple.

Miss Leshner, who also is the daughter of the late Mr. Leshner, is a graduate of Doane College at Crete, where she was a member of Alpha Lambda Delta and Phi Alpha Theta honoraries. She currently is a student at the University of Wisconsin College of Law at Madison.

Mr. Willis is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert George Willis of Manitowoc, Wis. He is a graduate of Marquette University at Milwaukee, Wis., where he was a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Phi Alpha Theta. He now attends the University of Wisconsin College of Law where he serves on the Law Review.

Add Extras To Vegetables

Be a food artist and use a little creativity when preparing those "same old vegetables."

Carrots, green beans and broccoli taste great with unusual sauces. Cook one tablespoon of chopped onion in two tablespoons margarine until onion is tender. Add one to two teaspoons lemon juice. Stir into cooked vegetables just before serving.

As a substitute for white sauce in creamed potatoes, peas or beans, use condensed cream of mushroom soup.

Freeze Cake First
Freeze unfrosted cake before splitting the layers or cutting it into fancy shapes. It will be easier to cut, neater and have fewer crumbs.

Opening lead - seven of hearts.

Bridge is a game of thrust and counter-thrust. Each side has a variety of weapons at its command, and victory in a hand usually goes to the side with the superior weapons — provided they are employed expeditiously.

Here is a case in point. West leads a heart and the outcome depends on how the players meet their respective obligations. They will probably follow one of three main courses of play:

1. East plays the queen of hearts, won by the ace. South has only eight sure tricks and has two sources for a ninth. He may find the clubs divided 3-3, or he may try to establish two diamond tricks by forcing out the A-K.

Let's say he tries the clubs and finds them split 4-2. When he then shifts to diamonds, West takes the king, cashes a club, and plays a heart to the king. East returns a heart and South goes down at least one.

2. East plays the queen of hearts at trick one and declarer ducks. As a result of this clearly superior move, South makes the contract. The hold-up succeeds because East cannot establish his hearts and cash them — he is short an entry for that purpose. South loses two diamonds and a heart and that is the end of the story.

3. East plays the eight of hearts at trick one and South is helpless. Forced to win the heart, there is no place he can seek shelter. The best he can do is tackle diamonds, in which case West wins and returns a heart. Declarer's ace is forced out and East still has a diamond entry to cash his hearts.

Par on the deal — with all hands on deck playing perfectly — is for South to go down one.

Human Rights Action Deferred

... Mayor's Appointments Questioned

Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf's appointments of new human rights commissioners ran into resistance from some City Council members Monday.

Several council members wanted an explanation from the mayor on why he selected the nine people he did to serve on the new commission.

And Councilman John Robinson again registered his objection to the entire selection process in which the mayor makes the appointments and then sends those names on to the council for its approval.

Additionally, the council discovered that one appointee, Arthur Knox, is ineligible to serve on the commission because he lives outside the city's corporate limits.

Action Deferred

As a result of the discussion which stretched from a morning council meeting to the afternoon's regular session, the council held off action one week on the appointments of:

— William Wilson, Merlin McLaughlin and Knox to three-year terms.

— James Shelley, John Scott and Harry Allen to two-year terms.

— Jo Doris Bragg, Carol Reilly and Francis Zegers to one-year terms.

The appointment of a new commission is required as a result of recent council approval of a comprehensive human rights ordinance which sets up a nine-member commission with new powers and duties. The old commission has 11 members. Seven of the nine appointees to the new commission are holdovers from the old one.

Robinson said he would like to have separate resolutions on each appointee so he can vote on each individual and not the whole list.

Councilwoman Helen Boosalis asked that the council be supplied with the attendance record of each of the holdovers before a vote is taken on the appointees. She has requested such information in the past on other mayoral appointments to boards and commissions.

Women To One Year
Councilwoman Sue Bailey

asked the mayor at the morning council meeting why he appointed both women to one-year terms.

"To people out there this looks like it could be discriminatory," she said.

Schwartzkopf replied that his appointment of Bragg and Reilly to one-year terms "had nothing to do with" the fact both are women.

He said he appointed Wilson to a three-year term since he thought his service was valuable to the commission as a former chairman.

No Minorities

Boosalis pointed out that no Indians or Mexican-Americans would be represented on the commission under the proposed appointments.

"Minority representation is even more important on this commission than on many others," she contended.

Which prompted Councilman Bob Sikyta to remark, "No bohunks are represented" and Schwartzkopf to comment, "Neither are any Russians."

"But there's a difference," Boosalis interjected.

Councilman Dick Baker told fellow lawmakers he thought they were out of the bounds of their legislative responsibilities in the matter.

"Then I don't think we need to confirm the appointments," Boosalis replied.

'Nitpicking'

Mayor Schwartzkopf said he thought the council "is nitpicking on this," and added he made his selections on the basis of whom he thought was qualified and willing to serve.

The council also pointed out that one appointee, Knox, is ineligible to serve on the commission since he lives outside the city's corporate limits. Knox's address is listed as 920 Pine Tree Ln.

In other action, the council held public hearings on three requests made by attorney Douglas Kluender to turn an old fraternity at 12th and H into law offices for the Healey, Healey, Brown and Burchard law firm.

Kluender is requesting a change of zone from E-1 Multiple Dwelling to F Restricted Commercial, or an amendment to the zoning ordinance allowing professional services in districts in which they are usually prohibited. He is requesting a special permit to accompany the amendment.

Last summer the planning commission and a majority of the council approved a similar zoning request on three half blocks on H from 9th to 12th. But, Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf vetoed that action and the council failed to override his veto.

At the Nov. 19 council meeting, a majority of the council ruled that the new application for a zoning change is not "substantially similar" to the first application which was vetoed.

The zoning code prohibits the reintroduction for one year of zoning requests which have been defeated and are judged to be similar.

On the new applications the planning commission rejected all three.

Argument Challenged

Kluender told city lawmakers Monday that Planning Director Doug Brogden's argument that approval of the zoning change would permit the spreading out of the downtown core to the south is not a valid argument.

Kluender said the firm's present law offices are located at 17th and L.

"We're not now downtown and never will be," he said citing problems in finding adequate space and parking.

Although admitting that Brogden is correct in pointing out there is other land available zoned for business, Kluender contended that land "is not available to us."

"We've gotten no help from the planning department on this," he stated.

Amendment Urged

If the Council rejects the zoning request, he urged adoption of the proposed amendment which would allow offices for attorneys, architects, doctors, dentists and engineers in zoning districts where they are now banned.

Kluender proposed two changes to the amendment which would allow such professional offices only in E-1 and E Multiple Dwelling districts and would restrict such offices to buildings already constructed.

Brogden noted there are some 80 to 100 acres of E zoning in the city primarily located south of the central business district from 9th to 18th and from H to D.

Brogden noted that his staff is drafting a similar amendment to the zoning code with more restrictive provisions and standards.

Although Brogden said he does not favor that move, he is drafting the amendment at the request of the planning commission. He said the draft should be presented to the council in February.

Options Expire

However, Kluender urged favorable action on the request immediately, saying that the law firm's options on the fraternity expire after Jan. 1.

The council also held public hearings on the Board of Regents' application for a zoning change from A-1 Single Family to A-2 Single Family on the south side of O, northeast of the Missouri-Pacific Railroad tracks.

Regents' attorney Charles Pallelsen explained that the board thought the land was zoned A-2 and had advertised the land for sale under that zoning category.

Brogden reported that under A-1 zoning a theoretical 45 units could be built on the 12-acre tract. Under A-2 zoning, he said 64 units could be built.

The council is slated to act on the applications next Monday.

In further action the council:

Ordinances, Third Reading
— Approved amendment to the code increasing the release fee to be paid by the owner from $10 to $15 relating to impounding of vehicles.

Why Adjust-a-Drape Draperies cleaning can guarantee exact length... even hemlines!

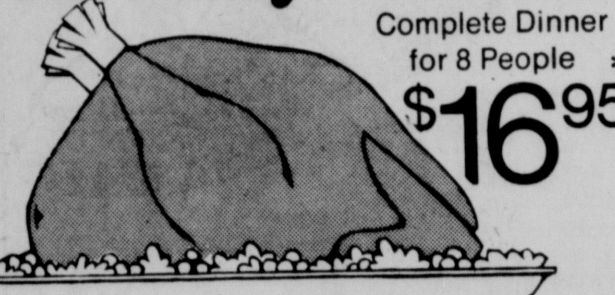

There's a difference between Adjust-a-Drape and all other drapery cleaners. Adjust-a-Drape is more than just a cleaning. It's a blocking/shaping beauty treatment for your draperies. Here's how our Adjust-a-Drape machine guarantees exact length and even hemlines. 1. Our enclosed steam blocking cabinet gently relaxes fibers so blocking/shaping can be done to exact premeasured dimensions. 2. Blocking/shaping in their normal hanging vertical position eliminates sagging. 3. Our computation system lines up seams and panels vertically. 4. Our unique drapery holding device results in perfectly uniform blocking/shaping. For guaranteed length and even hemlines, check us.

North Lincoln Tabitha Site OK'd

By LYNN ZERSCHLING
Star Staff Writer

As expected, city lawmakers Monday unanimously approved Tabitha Development Corp.'s change of zone request which will allow construction of a multi-use retirement community north of Lincoln.

Tabitha had requested a change of zone from A-2 Single Family to B Two Family on 58 acres. A total of 325 acres is involved in the plan, located at Fletcher Ave. and 27th.

The developers are proposing to build 2,300 residences in innovative village cluster arrangements.

Last week the Housing Authority said it would consider placing 400 low-income housing units in the development. Both council members and planning commissioners have voiced an interest in including low-income housing on the site.

Other Facilities

Plans also call for construction of an area shopping area, a local health care clinic and some light industry.

Construction should get under way by July, 1974, with the first tenants moving in by the summer of 1975.

In approving the north Lincoln location, council members brought off its pending list and killed Tabitha's first application for a zoning change to construct the community at 86th and Holdrege.

That site is located in the Stevens Creek watershed — an area in which city officials have been prohibiting development in favor of radial growth to the north and west.

In other action, the council attached a rider to last week's approval of a statement of intent authorizing the exchange of Wilderness Park land for the proposed West Side Bypass.

Transcript Agreed To

At the request of Councilwoman Sue Bailey, the council agreed to compile a verbatim transcript of last Monday's public hearing and council discussion on the land trade.

The council, after lengthy testimony on the trade, stipulated that the land to be traded for four parcels of parkland be of an equivalent value and deleted references to the land to be substituted. The replacement land was indicated in a State Department of Roads' map.

professional services budget to hire help to get the job completed within a week.

Councilmen Bob Sikyta and Dick Baker objected to including the transcript with the letter of intent and expending any funds for compiling that transcript.

Ex-Fort Calhoun Marshal Is Slain

OMAHA, Neb. (AP)—Police in Omaha said Monday they believed a 12 gauge shotgun was used to kill Francis D. Crocker Jr., 29, who until recently was the marshal at Fort Calhoun.

He was shot to death Sunday night in an incident that began as he was driving on Interstate 680 near Irvington northwest of Omaha.

Police said three to six shots were fired into the victim, the first as he was traveling west on the highway, apparently headed toward Grand Island where he had a job with a drywall company.

Sheriff's officers and police said the shot ripped through the driver's side of Crocker's car. The auto swerved from the road, went down an embankment and stopped. Then someone apparently went to the car and fired more blasts into Crocker's face.

Both sheriff's deputies and police were investigating. Authorities said if Crocker died when first shot on the Interstate it is the sheriff's case, but if he was killed where his car finally came to rest the case falls under Omaha police jurisdiction.

Al Pattavina, Omaha public safety director, said the two agencies were cooperating in the investigation.

Police said they had a description of a car driven by a possible suspect but declined further comment. A son of a witness who heard shots shortly before the body was found said he saw a car that had been near the scene turn around in a driveway.

Authorities said three .16 gauge shotgun shells found about three fourths of a mile east of the death car apparently were not connected with the case.

Crocker left his job as Fort Calhoun marshal Nov. 24. He had been scheduled to return to classes at the Nebraska Law Enforcement Training Center at Grand Island on Nov. 26, but failed to do so.

Mrs. Mike Crocker of Chapman, a sister-in-law, said Crocker went to work last week for a drywall company in Grand Island.

The sister-in-law said Crocker had been living with his father, Francis Crocker Sr., in Grand Island. His mother lives at Blue Hill.

Mrs. H. W. Lanouette of Fort Calhoun said Crocker had been with her daughter Vicky Sunday and brought her home about 9:15 p.m. and left, presumably for Grand Island.

SMITH ... retiring

90-Foot RR Needs Train

Valley (AP) — Three retired railroaders and a retired dairyman have built a railroad of sorts. It is known as the Choctaw-Valley Line.

And it will run 90 feet — if it ever gets a train.

The line currently is made up of trackage, a pushcar and a sometimes cantankerous "board of directors" — builders.

The retired railroaders are Glen Condon, Edgar Ohms and Vic Nielsen. The dairyman is Otto Lorenz.

The Choctaw-Valley Line started out with just a few feet of junk track and the pushcar, all of which Condon accumulated last summer.

Condon said the board put it together and the "kids had a great time shoving the car around."

Condon said a "fellow has a diesel he said he would donate if he can sell the engine out of it."

Smith To Leave Supreme Court

Gov. J. J. Exon announced Monday that State Supreme Court Judge Robert L. Smith has resigned effective Jan. 1, 1974.

Exon said in making the announcement that he thanked Smith for his "distinguished service" to Nebraska and wished him well in his retirement.

Smith, 55, is the youngest member of the court. He was appointed to the Supreme Court nine years ago and was elected to the court in 1968.

He came to the Supreme Court from the bench of the Douglas County District Court.

Smith had been appointed to represent the Second Judicial District. That district includes the northeast quarter of Douglas County.

A nominating committee will provide names to the governor so a new judge can be appointed.

The governor later said Smith resigned for health reasons.

Charge Against Inmate Dropped Following Probe

A first-degree murder charge filed against a 19-year-old Nebraska Penal Complex inmate in connection with the fatal stabbing of another inmate last June was dismissed Monday by the Lancaster County attorney's office.

According to Chief Deputy Lancaster County Attorney Ronald Lahners, charges against Steve Hurley were dismissed after investigation showed that Hurley was acting in self-defense in connection with the death of David A. Eddens, 23.

Lahners said that a lie detector test taken by Hurley and corroborating evidence from witnesses showed that Eddens used a baseball bat to attack Hurley.

Frontier Official Defends Flight Cuts

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer
Frontier Airlines has cut Nebraska air service proportionately more than the fuel shortage would necessitate, but the cuts have been fair and justified, Frontier's senior vice president for marketing said Monday.

Gordon Linkon of Frontier told a meeting of community and state officials service was curtailed where passenger demand could still be accommodated with fewer flights. No money-making flights were cut, he said.

"This isn't a straight-line method that was used to cut air traffic across the board," he said.

"If we serve a community with three flights daily and if the traffic could be carried by two flights, we cut service by one flight," Linkon said.

18 Flights Dropped

Frontier has dropped 18 flights, affecting eight Nebraska cities, in response to reduced fuel allotments. Information supplied by State Aeronautics Director Rudy Perales indicated that Convair 580 service amounted to 54.7 hours of flying time per day prior to the cut-back.

Although the fuel allotment was cut by 12%, Frontier cut back its Nebraska flying time by 20 hours. In other words, out of 74 daily departures, 31 were dropped.

Linkon said the two principles

Frontier followed in cutting flights were:

— no community would lose all its flights.

— the scheduled flights would not be dropped below the number needed to accommodate all passengers.

"We looked at where the traffic was and tried to meet public requirements where the people wanted to go places," Linkon said.

More Cuts Possible

Additional cuts in service may be necessary after Dec. 27, Linkon said, when additional adjustments may be mandated through aviation fuel supplies.

"But in the next cut, you'll find that Nebraska takes a lesser cut," he said.

The cuts taken in November were not in profit-making flights, but any future reductions in flight service will be digging into profitable jet markets, he said.

Future cutbacks, he indicated, will be to consolidate service where another airlines schedules a competing flight, reduce service to weekdays and drop one round to cities where two are presently required.

The major complaint voiced by community leaders was directed at the inconvenient scheduling of remaining flights, which they indicated actually further discouraged passengers.

One Day Becomes Two

I. J. Friend of the Hastings Airport Authority said the new schedule means that a one-day meeting for many businessmen now takes two days.

Hastings, which had its four flights cut to two, can "live" on two flights a day, but current late night schedules mean Hastings "may as well have none," Friend said.

Dick Hunter of the Tri-City Coordinating Council maintained "only a fool" would get on an Omaha-bound flight from Kearney which stops in Hastings and Grand Island.

The result is that many travelers are either not flying or boarding at other airports, he said. A three-month survey at Hastings indicated only 38% of those who bought reservations there boarded at Hastings.

Linkon responded, "I share your disappointment with the scheduling of flights. We can afford the best timing where there's the greatest number of people."

"Let's face it, Grand Island boards more people than Columbus, Hastings and Kearney combined."

Offutt Explains Civilian Ban At Post Office

Omaha (AP) — A spokesman said the decision by Offutt Air Force Base not to allow 368 rural postal patrons to use the new post office substation on the base was made for security reasons.

The base information officer, Maj. Richard Kimball, explained that because of the large number of people involved, allowing civilians to enter the base would present a security problem.

Charles Johnson, director of customer services for the Omaha Post Office, said the decision, effective Jan. 1, reversed an earlier agreement whereby civilians were to have been allowed access to the substation.

Two Ambulances Halt Without Gas

Omaha (AP) — Two cases of out-of-state ambulances being marooned in Omaha because of gasless Sunday have been reported.

A Nebraska State Patrol spokesman said that if ambulances run into gas problems, the drivers should notify the patrol.

But Merle Renander, chief of the Pender rescue squad, said most drivers are unaware of such help.

He said, "I think they've been misinformed about getting gas in Omaha. We expected it wouldn't be difficult finding gas for an ambulance."

Last Sunday Renander drove a patient in Pender's only ambulance to an Omaha hospital. With less than a quarter of a tank of gas, he monitored the police radio until another ambulance driver, Joseph Menish of O'Neill, found a station willing to provide gas.

Menish visited three stations whose names were supplied by the Douglas County sheriff's office. The stations, who provide gasoline for police cars under contract, refused to supply the ambulance with gas but after some urging, an attendant at a fourth station did.

Renander said the thought of having the town's only ambulance stranded miles from home is more unnerving than inconvenient.

Welfare Overage Said Low In State

By The Associated Press

State Welfare Director Lawrence Graham said Monday that the percentage of welfare recipients in Nebraska who are overpaid or ineligible will be about half the nationwide percentage to be announced following a six-month federal study.

Graham said there would be 10.3 per cent Nebraskans overpaid compared with a national average of 21 per cent. He said 6.5 per cent of Nebraskans studied were ineligible compared to a national average of 9.5 per cent.

He said Nebraska would be 16th or 17th lowest in errors in its aid to dependent children caseload.

In a statement released Monday Graham said he conducted a six-month sampling of state welfare roles from April to September. After a similar study completed last December the federal government threatened to cut off $1.9 million in aid to Nebraskans, but he said this December the federal government would threaten to cut off $160,000 because of overpayment errors.

He said Nebraska's underpayment error is 2.7 per cent compared to a national average of 7.4 per cent.

Concordia To Graduate 72 Persons

Seventy-two persons will graduate from Concordia College, Seward, at an informal noon luncheon in Brommer Hall Wednesday.

Fifty-five students will receive the bachelor of science degree and the Lutheran teacher diploma, two will receive a Lutheran teacher diploma only, three will receive only the bachelor of science degree, and one will receive the master teacher degree. Two graduates are receiving director of Christian education diplomas and 11 will be presented master degrees in education.

Officials at the ceremony will be Reb. Frederick Niedner, president of the Nebraska district, Lutheran Church-Missouri Synod; President W. Th. Janzow; Dr. Larry Grothaus, assistant dean of academic affairs, and Dr. Orville Walz, registrar. Dr. Martin Kirch, dean of academic affairs, will be the speaker, and the Concordia Brass ensemble, directed by Dr. Donald Taebel, will provide the music.

Teachers Volunteer For Retirement Test

By United Press International

A spokesman for Nebraska's elementary and secondary teachers told a legislative committee Monday the teachers would be happy to be the first to try a new retirement system being considered for all government employees in the state.

"We'd be happy to be the guinea pig for this," said John Lynch, executive secretary of the State Education Association, during a hearing conducted by the retirement systems committee.

The plan before the committee would combine all existing retirement programs at state and local levels into one system.

The committee was told by the Legislature's research staff there are currently 15 different programs in operation and at the least they could be combined into three.

Most of those who appeared before the committee, however, said they wanted to retain their present retirement programs rather than initiate a completely new one.

But Lynch said he felt the idea would represent an improvement in the teacher retirement program.

"We don't feel we can go anywhere but up," he said.

Keyes Suggests Schools Could Open Hour Later

Springfield (UPI) — A state senator said Sunday night that Nebraska schools should start an hour later in the morning when Daylight Saving Time becomes effective Jan. 6.

Sen. Orval Keyes of Springfield said he would make the request to Gov. J. James Exon, and state and local school officials this week.

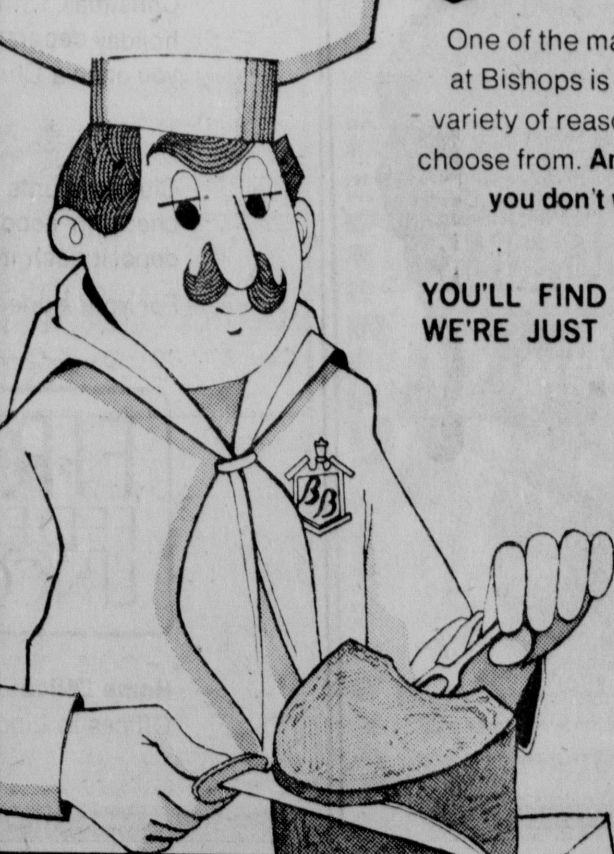

Keyes said "depending on the response I get" he might file a resolution on the starting time change before the 1974 Unicameral which convenes Jan. 1.

Keyes cited the "safety factor" involved in that once Daylight Saving Time is initiated, students would be spending more hours riding buses to school in darkness.

In addition, Keyes said a fuel savings could result since temperatures were usually cooler during the early morning hours than they are in the late afternoon.

"There are some country kids who will be riding in the bus two hours before daylight," Keyes said. "Starting school an hour later would be the best thing that can happen to them."

Marvel Planning Statement Soon

KEARNEY, Neb. (AP)—State Sen. Richard Marvel of Hastings said Monday he will make a positive announcement concerning his potential candidacy for the Republican gubernatorial nomination within the next three weeks.

Marvel was in Kearney Monday for a series of appearances and visits with business leaders, college students, college administrators and a radio talk show.

Marvel said, "I make no secret of the fact that I am interested in running for governor."

Marvel said he was in Kearney to seek advice on the issues facing state government and on his own possible candidacy.

Asked what he would do if elected governor, Marvel said that based on his 18 years' experience in the legislature he believes "we can proceed now to reorganize state government to make use of the facilities we now have. At the moment, we are not doing this."

Marvel said he doesn't believe there is now any basic system or direction to the way state government is going in any area.

CROP Dedicates 1,000 Bushels Of Milo

A truck loaded with 1,000 bushels of milo was used to represent the gifts of farmers in southern and central Lancaster County in a special dedication by officials of CROP at Hallam Monday.

The CROP organization has collected $8,000 worth of grain and cash gifts in the area for use in its relief programs. This particular load of grain was shipped to Archer - Daniels - Midland Co. in Lincoln, where it was exchanged for soy products and other high protein foods. The foods are then sent to areas of Africa, India and other countries suffering drought and famine.

CROP was formerly the Christian Rural Overseas Program but since 1969 the organization has added non-farm people and has been renamed the Community Hunger Appeal of Church World Service. CROP also receives designated gifts for Lutheran, Catholic and Evangelical overseas agencies.

CROP protein foods have been sent to Brazil, India, Indonesia, Niger, Haiti and the Dominican Republic under the program in recent months.

Peru State College Registration Set for Jan. 7-8

Peru — Registration for the Peru State College spring semester by an alphabetical schedule will be Jan. 7-8. Classes will begin Jan. 9.

A class has been introduced for students preparing for elementary education degrees. "Development of Basic Learning Abilities," is a study of learning disabilities and motor-physical development.

Dr. Thomas Scherer, dean of education, said Nebraska teacher certification requirements by 1976 are to include study in the field of learning disabilities to eliminate a greater portion of student failures.

Peru State will continue one of the newest teaching techniques, competency-based education, in educational psychology and human growth and development classes. The Peru Accelerated Competency-based Education (PACE) method of students working at their own speed is serving as a pilot study for the State Education Department.

Patrol Report Details Withheld

McCook (AP) — Red Willow County Atty. Clyde Starrett has received a State Patrol report on the death of Ida Fitzgibbons, but details of the report are being withheld pending further discussion with patrol investigators.

Miss Fitzgibbons was found in her burning home April 25 with a knife in her chest, a broken angle and a length of unidentified material around her neck. McCook police ruled her death a suicide. Starrett said he received the patrol report last week and wanted to "go over some of the items" in the report with patrol investigators for clearance of what should be released.

Starrett said it is not likely the full report will be made public, but a summary of its main points may be released. Starrett said the reports does differ in some areas from one submitted by the McCook Police Department. Gov. Exon had asked the State Patrol to review evidence in the case.

Grand Island — A total of 70 bred ewes sold at an average of $114.28 — nearly double last year's average — at the annual Nebraska Registered Sheep Breeders bred ewe sale here.

Last year's sale averaged $65.62 for 94 head.

Top selling ewe at the sale was a Suffolk consigned by Alan Kjeldgaard of Tekamah and purchased by Larry Pershing of Greenwood for $220. Pershing was also top bidder in the 1972 sale. Another Suffolk consigned by W. E. Gergen of Geneva brought a second high bid of $190 from out-of-stater Richard Barclay of Clearmont, Mo.

The high selling Hampshire ewe was consigned by Harry Hart of Cozad and sold for $180 to Ted Bethell of McDonald.

Kan. Bethell also paid the top price — $85.00 — for a Corriedale consigned by the University of Nebraska.

The sale averages, by breed, were as follows:

Suffolk — 26 head — $152.69;
Hampshire — 34 head — $99.26;
Corriedale — 10 head — $65.00;
overall — 70 head — $114.28.

Dyas Assails 'Nitpicking'

Democratic State Chairman Hess Dyas of Lincoln Monday hailed Gov. J. James Exon's decision to seek re-election and called on the Republican Party to "look at the basic issues rather than nitpicking."

Members of the GOP "hierarchy" have recently criticized Exon for naming State Tax Commissioner William Peters as the state's energy advisor, Dyas noted.

Peters "serves in the additional role because he is so instructed by state statute and not because Governor Exon is overloading administration officials," Dyas said.

Exon's decision to seek a second term is "good news for the State of Nebraska," he said, and the governor should be saluted for his announced intention to conduct a campaign based on issues.

"It will be a better campaign for Nebraska if all candidates set their sights that high," Dyas said.

Young People Rescued From Burning Building

Omaha (AP) — Fire officials reported a young man and woman were rescued from the roof of a burning apartment building in Omaha.

Officials said the fire was confined mostly to the lower floor, but smoke filled the two and one-half story structure, forcing the two to the roof.

Firemen climbed ladders Sunday and helped Gary Hurst, 21, and Gay Tuttle, 18, who live in separate upstairs apartments, to the ground.

Officials said the blaze apparently started in a basement apartment occupied by Janet Wedge.

Damage was estimated at $7,000 to $8,000.

Help us feed the needy this Christmas

Bring in a can of food, it's a good time to share

This year, Kentucky Fried Chicken and The Salvation Army have joined together to help make this a merrier Christmas for needy families in Lincoln.

At each participating Kentucky Fried Chicken store you'll find a collection barrel in which you can deposit cans of food. Then The Salvation Army will distribute it to those who need it most.

So, please help us fill our "holiday kettles" to the brim. You'll give someone a Merry Christmas. And you'll give yourself a Merry Christmas just knowing you helped.

Bring in a can of food and you receive $1.00 OFF on a barrel of chicken

Boyle Indicted For Murder Of Yablonskis

WASHINGTON, Pa. (AP) — Former United Mine Workers President W. A. "Tony" Boyle was indicted on murder charges Monday in the 1969 killings of UMW reformist Joseph A. "Jock" Yablonski, his wife and daughter.

The charges were outlined in a three-page indictment returned by a Washington County grand jury.

Dist. Atty. Jess Costa said he would begin extradition proceedings against Boyle immediately.

Boyle, 70, currently is in protective custody in a Washington, D.C., hospital, recovering from a Sept. 24 suicide attempt. He previously had been indicted on federal conspiracy charges in the case, and is to stand trial in Pittsburgh on those charges in February.

Production Rises

Cairo (AP) — Egypt's production of pig iron increased from 400,000 tons to one million tons with the opening of a third blast furnace at the Helwan Industrial Center south of Cairo, officials reported.

Ice Tangles Traffic On Interstate 80

Traffic was backed up for as much as three miles in places on Interstate 80 Monday night between Lincoln and Greenwood, because of ice covering the highway.

The State Patrol said late Monday that I-80 had been cleared and traffic was normal after a jackknifed semi-trailer truck rig held up cars for nearly three miles.

There were no injuries reported, the patrol said, although it investigated at least three accidents. Several cars slid off the ice-covered highway, but were not damaged.

Beatrice Tire Cutting Probed

Beatrice (UPI) — Police Chief Merle Hesser said Monday that his department was offering a $25 reward for information leading to the arrest of those involved in a tire slashing incident.

Hesser said 22 tires on 13 vehicles were destroyed and one convertible top was also slashed. He said the incident occurred during the night Sunday.

Fairbury Store Hit In Break-In

Fairbury (UPI) — Police Sunday were probing the theft of about $2,000 in cash from a liquor store.

Officers said the break-in occurred early Sunday at Walt's Liquor Store.

Officers said the money was taken from an unlocked safe.

Europe Takes Steps To Meet Energy Crisis

Brussels (UPI) — Foreign ministers of the nine-nation Common Market met Monday to lay the groundwork for a European oil policy and appoint a committee of experts to oversee it.

The summit ordered foreign ministers to set in motion machinery balance sheet of European energy needs and supplies.

On the basis of this, the first measures leading to a "common Market for energy" are to be set up by Feb. 28.

Storm Affects Market

NEW YORK (AP) — Bad weather and uncertainty about the upcoming Mideast peace conference pushed stock market prices into lower ground Monday, analysts said.

Trading on the New York Stock Exchange was delayed an hour as a winter storm hampered travel in and around New York with commuters facing delays of several hours in some cases. The last time the market opening was held up for bad weather was Feb. 10, 1969, when the market shut down for the day and did not open until 11 a.m. the next morning.

As the storm dampened trading, wariness about the once-delayed Mideast peace conference added to the downward pressure, brokers said.

Larry Wachtel of Bache & Co. said: "The decline reflects a good deal of question about the conference. There's a sense of disappointment that the conference was delayed from Tuesday until Friday, and many people are being cautious and staying on the fence."

The broad-based NYSE composite index of some 1,500 common stocks fell 31.30 to 89.13.

On the American Stock Exchange, the market-value index lost 1.38 points to 1,386.08.

On the New York Stock Exchange, the market-value index lost 1.38 points to 89.13.

Drug issues were mostly higher after William E. Simon, head of the Federal Energy Office, announced that the petroleum industry's suppliers would be allowed to raise prices for fuel to continue producing essential drugs and carry on priority research.

Moving against a declining market, Merck & Co. rose 1/8 to 81 1/2.

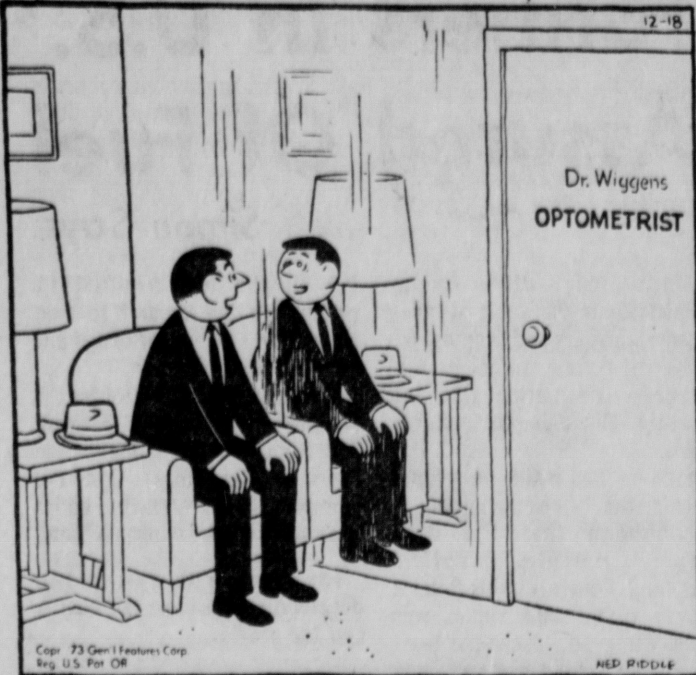

And Pfizer, Inc. gained 1/8 to 39 1/8.

Big 8 Healthy, Cept For Coaches

While Colorado football coach Eddie Crowder has been trying to make up his mind about where he would be and what he would be doing wherever he was next football season, he came up with at least one very poignant observation.

"The balance and strength of the Big Eight is very healthy for everything dealing with this conference except the coaches," Crowder allowed. "Every coaching staff in the conference except Oklahoma is being criticized in its own state."

While Big Eight fans were setting another season attendance record, they may also have set a record of another sort — for unhappiness.

At Colorado, they threw eggs at Crowder's house and put a "For Sale" sign in his front yard. At Nebraska, they booed Tom Osborne.

At Iowa State, they complained because the ball wasn't being thrown enough. At Missouri, they complained about an unimaginative offense. At Kansas State, they complained about not beating Kansas.

And at Oklahoma, they complained about not being able to go to a bowl game.

Happy In Another League

The degree of happiness or unhappiness among football fans can generally be judged by looking at his team's record in the league in which his team is playing.

And if you agree with that premise, then you'd have to agree with the conclusion that Big Eight fans would have been much happier this season had their team been playing in any league other than the Big Eight.

Minnesota fans were delighted that their Gophers finished third in the Big Ten with a 6-2 record, yet Minnesota was bombed by Nebraska, 48-7, and beaten by Kansas, 34-19.

Southern Cal won the Pacific Eight, yet could do no better than a 7-7 tie with Oklahoma. Pac Eight runner-up UCLA was 6-1 in its league, yet was thrashed by Nebraska, 40-13.

LSU, runner-up in the Southeastern Conference, frolicked past everyone in its league save for champion Alabama, yet beat Colorado only, 17-6, and the Buffs tied for last in the Big Eight.

Mississippi was the third best team in the SEC, yet Missouri, which tied for only fourth in the Big Eight, blanked Ole Miss, 17-0.

And On And On And On

Texas didn't even need its extra-dry Right Guard in waltzing to the Southwest Conference title with a 7-0 log.

But the Longhorns couldn't get close enough to a Sooner to find out if he had used his Right Guard or not in a 52-13 loss to Oklahoma.

North Carolina State went 6-0 to win the Atlantic Coast Conference, but against Nebraska, it was 31-14 and the North Carolina State name appeared in the right hand column.

Tulsa tied for the Missouri Valley crown with a 5-1 mark, but was shut out by 21-0 in a meeting with Kansas State, a last place team in the Big Eight.

But, despite leading the country in disgruntled football fans for the past decade, the Big Eight may also be the national leader in fewest coaches fired over the past decade.

The lack of firings hasn't been because there weren't fans hollering for firings, but it's a credit to Big Eight athletic directors and school administrators for realizing what a tough place it is to coach.

Fans Wanted Fairbanks Gone

You may have forgotten because of his success in 1971 and 1972 when his Sooners finished second nationally — second in the Big Eight, too, by the way — but Oklahoma fans were yelling for Chuck Fairbanks' scalp in 1970.

Colorado fans were upset because he couldn't beat Oklahoma — until he got them a third place finish nationally in 1971. Then they were all for him. How quickly they turn.

Al Onofrio couldn't have won a popular vote over a tax collector in Missouri after his Tigers were 1-10 in 1971 and after losing by 62-0 to Nebraska in 1972. But by season's end, with upsets over Notre Dame and Colorado, he was a hero in the state.

Vince Gibson so enamored Kansas State fans that they built him a new stadium, new offices and an athletic dormitory, but a year ago he was told he could stay in Manhattan only if he fired his assistants and the one-year reprieve was good only if he could win six games this season and one of the six had to be against Kansas.

The Wildcats' 17-14 final game victory over Colorado may have earned him another year's reprieve although he just missed fulfilling the first two conditions.

Not even the legendary Bob Devaney was immune to wolfish cries when his record "sank" to 6-4 in 1967 and 1968, the four losses both seasons coming in the Big Eight.

Easier Tasks Elsewhere

The wolves haven't gotten to many Big Eight coaches in the past decade, the only ones coming immediately to mind being Phil Cutchin at Oklahoma State, Doug Weaver at Kansas State and Jack Mitchell at Kansas.

But the desire to sleep at night without the aid of drugs or a hypodermic needle may have led others to choose to practice their chosen art in other parts of the country.

Fairbanks left Oklahoma for the New England Patriots where he only had to try to beat the Miami Dolphins and not the Nebraska Cornhuskers.

Dan Devine left Missouri for the Green Bay Packers where he could study films of the Minnesota Vikings instead of the Oklahoma Sooners.

Pepper Rodgers went from Kansas to UCLA where there wasn't an Oklahoma or a Missouri on the schedule. Dave Smith took one swipe at Oklahoma and Nebraska as coach at Oklahoma State and decided it would be easier trying to beat Texas with an SMU team.

Dutton, Minus Captain Stripes, Rejoins Team

By HAL BROWN
Star Sports Editor

All-American tackle John Dutton, minus his captain's stripes, rejoined his Nebraska football teammates for practice Monday afternoon after a brief suspension that resulted from a misunderstanding over how hard those practice sessions would be.

for the Husker Cotton Bowl appearance against Texas on New Year's Day.

Regardless of how hard those practice sessions are, none of them can be much harder than what Dutton had to do Monday afternoon before practice got under way — apologize to his teammates.

Husker head coach Tom Osborne had announced just before noon Monday that Dutton would be permitted to rejoin the squad and Dutton met with the press at their request moments before he went in front of his teammates.

"It feels great," the 6-7, 248-pound defensive tackle said of his reaction to being re-instated, "because I've always wanted to play. I have never made any mention of not playing."

Dutton sat in NU sports information director Don Bryant's office Monday afternoon explaining to writers and broadcasters the circumstances that led up to his temporary suspension with the meeting with his teammates only a few minutes off.

"Apologizing is a tough thing to do," he explained. "If you've got a certain amount of pride, it's always a hard thing to do to apologize. But I'm going to do it because I want to play."

Dutton also accepted full blame for the misunderstanding that started with a meeting last Monday, which he missed because he was in San Francisco as a part of the Football Coaches Association all-American team, in which Osborne outlined what he expected from the team in their Cotton Bowl preparations.

"When I got back," Dutton related, "Some of the players told me how hard the practices would be, so I had a meeting with the players Thursday because I wanted to hear their opinions."

"Instead of doing that, I should have gone directly to coach Osborne (to find out what he really had said on Monday). I misread the players' feelings."

Reports of what went on at the Thursday meeting, which was closed to the coaches, began getting back to Osborne, who then had a meeting with Dutton Friday at which time the temporary suspension was imposed and Osborne explained at the time that he wanted to wait a day or two before taking final action.

In explaining his delay in making a final decision, the Husker coach pointed out, "We have debated for some time about what to do because the meeting in which he (Dutton) was involved was closed, and the coaches were not present, resulting in a lot of hearsay."

"We have wanted to try and put together just what happened so that we would not make a rash decision."

One of the hearsay reports coming out of that closed Thursday meeting was that Dutton had said he didn't care whether or not the Huskers won the Cotton Bowl.

"That's ridiculous," Dutton said Monday afternoon. "There was never any mention of that. The meeting involved practices only."

Dutton had been outspoken throughout the season about what he felt were unnecessarily long and hard practice sessions and he said Monday he regretted that.

"I've always practiced hard," he asserted. "I think coach Kiffin (defensive coordinator Monte) will tell you that."

"Daryl White (offensive captain) and I even worked after practice each night, lifting weights."

Dutton said he had suggested to Osborne that he be relieved of his duties as defensive captain. "The players voted me to be a captain," he noted. "And I led them wrong. I did things I shouldn't have done."

In agreeing that Dutton should no longer serve as a captain, Osborne explained, "We believe the role of captain is one of promoting unity and last Thursday, John violated that trust."

"Our main concern is that everyone be unified and willing to give 100 per cent. John has satisfied me that he is willing to do this and I'm sure the rest of the squad feels the same way."

Dutton agreed that he felt the morale of the Huskers was good, pointing out, "They would have gone down and played the game without me . . . and I couldn't have blamed anyone but myself if I hadn't been able to play."

And Larry Brown, the NFC rushing leader last year, was banged up so much and so often that he didn't get untracked until the last few weeks of the season. It was the defense that kept Washington, 10-4, in contention most of the way.

Dallas also was 10-4, but won the Eastern crown by outscoring the Redskins in their two meetings. Now the Cowboys have to avert a repeat of Oct. 14. That's when Los Angeles outscored them 37-31. They'd prefer a repeat of the Aug. 3 exhibition game when they whipped the Rams 24-7. They've got both a powerful ground game headed by 1,000-yard runner Calvin Hill and a sharp passing game with Roger Staubach backed up by Craig Morton.

In that regular-season game, the Rams flexed their most visible muscles as quarterback John Hadl, who had come from San Diego and toned down his style under new Coach Chuck Knox, reverted to his "mad bomber" technique, throwing touchdown passes covering 67, 63, 36 and 16 yards to Harold Jackson. But Los Angeles also has a potent rushing attack, led by 1,000-yarder Lawrence McCutcheon.

As in the regular season, the playoff games will be televised locally if they're sold out 72 hours prior to kickoff time. During the regular season, the NFL said it counted about 190,000 no-shows.

KU FALTERS, 31-18

...Fritts' Scores Spark Wolfpack

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — North Carolina State Coach Lou Holtz, whose team blitzed Kansas 31-18 in the nationally televised Liberty Bowl Monday night, says the Wolfpack was out to prove the Atlantic Coast Conference plays quality football.

"We were tired of hearing things that belittled the ACC," Holtz said. "I don't want to take anything away from Kansas, but I think we showed some folks today that we do play good football in our conference."

"We're not real fancy. We just try to run at people, and I feel we do a pretty good job of that."

He said his running backs "just pounded it out tonight. It's the same thing we've been doing all year."

Kansas Coach Don Fambrough said his team did not play up to par.

TROUBLE FOR KANSAS . . . KU quarterback Dave Jaynes (12) is surrounded by Mark Wilks (82) and Doug Carter (73).

Smith, Brookins Pace Creighton Past BYU

By STEVE GILLISPIE

Omaha — Creighton won a shooting contest here Monday night at Civic Auditorium over Brigham Young University 99-86.

The Bluejays, now 4-2, made 45 of 85 field goals and 9 of 12 free throws to the Cougars' 37 of 62 and 12 of 15, respectively.

Senior Guard Richie Smith scored a Creighton career-high of 12 points and teammate Doug Brookins, 6-8 junior center, tied his career high with 23.

"Creighton had good movement on offense, took good shots and played well on defense," BYU coach Glenn Potter said.

"We are basically inexperienced and made some errors in critical situations that hurt us," the former Nebraska assistant coach added.

"We shot well enough, but we can't stop anybody like should."

The 'Jays took the lead for good midway in the first half, when freshman Cornell Smith tipped in a missed shot with 12:44 left to make it 16-15.

Creighton slowly built a lead that the Cougars closed at times.

However, the 'Jays would then run off several points to keep a comfortable margin.

Ralph Bobik, a 6-7 senior guard, was the key to the 'Jays' attack as he stole the ball several times and finished with 16 assists and 11 points.

An important aspect of the game was turnovers, as BYU committed 25 to Creighton's 10.

"We were extremely pleased with our ball handling," Jay coach Eddie Sutton said.

"We only had two turnovers at the half to BYU's nine, which is probably the best of any team I've coached."

The rebounding favored BYU, 28-27. There were 19 fouls called on the 'Jays and 14 on BYU.

The loss dropped Utahans to 3-4, with all the losses coming on the road.

The 'Jays travel to Sioux Falls, S.D., Wednesday to meet Augustana College, which is favored to win the North Central Conference.

The Dolphins, who have their own rushing stars in Larry Csonka and Mercury Morris, finished at 12-2, not as good as their perfect 1972 campaign but good enough to establish an NFL record with 26 victories in two seasons.

They're out to achieve something that hasn't been done since the 1967-68 Green Bay Packers—successive Super Bowl victories.

Perhaps it's a bit early for conjecture, but if the Raiders and Dolphins win, it'll set up another interesting confrontation in the American Conference championship game Dec. 30. It was Oakland which halted Miami's winning streak at 18 games, beating Miami 12-7 in 1973's second week of action.

Speaking of conjecture, a Minnesota-Los Angeles matchup in the NFC championship, also Dec. 30, would be fascinating.

The Vikings and Rams were the conference's undisputed powers this season, each finishing with 12-2 records.

Minnesota, though, was the kingpin for a few weeks more than Los Angeles. The two teams met in the seventh week of the season, both with perfect records. The Vikings kept theirs intact with a pulsating 10-9 triumph over the Rams and the streak reached nine in a row before Atlanta beat them.

The Redskins, like Pittsburgh, had quarterback problems. Both Sonny Jurgensen and Billy Kilmer were among their walking wounded.

when quarterback Ken Stabler raced 30 yards for a touchdown.

That looked like the clincher. Three Terry Bradshaw passes failed and, on fourth down, he threw another . . . desperately. It was deflected by Tatum. Oakland's victory was assured, right?

Wrong. Franco Harris came out of nowhere, grabbed the ball off his kneecaps and dashed 42 yards for the winning touchdown with five seconds to play.

Both the Raiders and Steelers had to win their final games this season to be sure of making the playoffs again. Oakland beat Denver 21-17 Sunday, finishing with a 9-4 record and its sixth AFC West title in seven years.

The Steelers, midseason leaders in the Central Division, lost Bradshaw and No. 2 quarterback Terry Hanratty with injuries, went into a three-game losing streak, then finished with a 10-4 record and, after beating San Francisco 37-14 on Saturday had to settle for the AFC wild card spot, while Cincinnati, also 10-4, won the title.

The Bengals are making their second playoff appearance. In their inaugural, on Dec. 26, 1970, they lost 17-0 to Baltimore. Cincinnati, behind the Ken Anderson-to-Isaac Curtis passing tandem and the running of Essex Johnson and rookie Boobie Clark, each of whom narrowly missed 1,000-yard seasons, came on with a rush this year, winning its last six games and beat Pittsburgh and Cleveland for the division title.

By Associated Press

Pittsburgh vs. Oakland. It couldn't be a sweeter setup.

It's one of next weekend's four National Football League playoff games—and it's one that the Raiders—mainly safety Jack Tatum—have been waiting to play for 364 days.

Preceding the Pittsburgh-Oakland American Conference collision at 4 p.m., EST, Saturday, is the 1 p.m. National Conference opener with the Washington Redskins, the NFC wildcard team, visiting the Central Division champions, the Minnesota Vikings.

On Sunday at 1 p.m., the AFC's Central champions, the Cincinnati Bengals, take on the Eastern champions, the Dolphins at Miami. Then, at 4 p.m., the Los Angeles Rams, the NFC West winners, host the Eastern champions, the Dallas Cowboys.

All four games no doubt will be packed with emotion. That happens when you're going for a shot at the financial windfall that goes to the winners of Super Bowl VIII. These four games are the first step on the road to the championship game Jan. 13 at Rice Stadium in Houston.

But the Raiders have something special to get worked up about—like the way the Steelers "stole" the divisional playoff from them last Dec. 23 in Pittsburgh.

Oakland, after being shut out for more than 58 minutes, grabbed a 7-6 lead with 1:13 to play

OU Defensive Backs Highlight Blue Team

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) — When Gray quarterback Carl Summerell drops back to pass Tuesday night in the 36th annual Blue-Gray Classic, he will be looking at a defensive secondary that has played together all season.

The three are Durwood Keeton, Kenith Pope and Clyde Powers, all from No. 2 ranked Oklahoma.

Swim Honor To Stanard

Scott Stanard, 13, of the Lincoln Swim Club is the only male individual swimmer in the Midwestern AAU Association to be ranked nationally in the latest National AAU age group ratings as published by Swimming World Magazine.

Stanard, who was recently named the Midwestern AAU Outstanding Age Group Male Swimmer for 1973, is ranked fourth in the nation among 11 and 12-year-olds in the 50-meter breaststroke (.37.33). He is also rated sixth nationally in the 100-meter breaststroke (1:21.06).

Stanard, along with Bob Gustafson, Brian Smith, and Jack Perry hold the fifth best time in the nation for the 400-meter medley relay for 11 and 12-year-olds with a clocking of 5:08.7.

Scott and brother Mark Stanard, Smith and Gustafson have the sixth best time in the nation for the 200-meter freestyle relay with a time of 2:01.36.

Lincoln Swim Club girl members Renee Magee, Simone Gamache, Kris Funk and Barb Harris posted the ninth best time in the nation for 13 and 14-year-olds in the 200-meter freestyle relay with a 1:59.47.

Melanie Jakob of the Grand Island Swim Association is rated 10th nationally for girls 13-14 in the 100-yard breaststroke (1:11).

"I'd have to say that will give them a real big advantage, playing with the three Oklahoma boys in the secondary," said Gray Coach Grant Teaff of Baylor.

In addition, two other teammates — Jim Coode and Mike Hoban of Michigan — will be playing beside each other in the Blue offensive line.

The Grays will counter with the seemingly unperturbable Summerell, a 6-3, 211-pound quarterback from East Carolina. Summerell completed 53.2 per cent of his passes this season and racked up 1,222 total yards.

The man Summerell will probably pass to most is Harrison Davis of Virginia.

Davis will start at wide receiver but the Grays are counting on him to cover six different positions during the game if he is needed. He'll be backup man at quarterback, defensive back and split end, as well as holding for field goals and handling some kicking assignments.

Robustelli Hired By NY Giants

New York (AP) — The New York Giants Monday named Andy Robustelli, former All-Pro defensive end and assistant coach, as director of operations for the National Football League team.

Owner Wellington Mara, making the announcement at a hastily called press conference, said the 47-year-old Robustelli would oversee all field operations of the Giants, including coaching, scouting, player signings, trades and the preseason training camp.

The post is equivalent to that of general manager, one which the Mara family has held to itself throughout the long history of the club.

"He's becoming a very busy man," said Teaff. "But that's the type you need in all-star games, someone who can do a little of everything."

North Coach Jack Christensen of Stanford will be calling on quarterback Jesse Freitas of San Diego State, who holds the nation's passing and total offense records.

Freitas will be tossing the ball to Hank Cook from New Mexico State, who tied for third place in NCAA statistics. Also at wide receiver will be Gerald Tinker of Kent State, an Olympic gold medal winning speedster.

The Blue ground game will be centered on Isaac Jackson of Kansas State. Jackson holds Kansas State's all-time rushing record.

The game will be nationally televised with kickoff at 7 p.m. CST.

Midland Nips Bellevue, 91-85

FREMONT, Neb. (AP) — Midland blew a 41-29 halftime lead then pulled out a 91-85 basketball victory over Bellevue College in three overtimes Monday night.

Tim Malhot got four of his 24 points and Frank Briscoe scored all four of his for Midland in the final overtime period, during which Bellevue counted only two.

The score was tied at 70 at the end of regulation play. Jeff Meyer led Midland with 25 points and Ed Larson was high for Bellevue with 19.

Midland now is 2-4 and Bellevue 5-7 for the season.

BELEVUE (85) — Larson 19, Thrasher 16, Garlock 12, Riley 11, Howard 11, Lee 10, Riesch 4, Drake 2.
MIDLAND (91) — Meyer 25, Malhot 24, Casper 16, Suhr 11, Witte 10, Briscoe 4, Seffries 1.

Chadron Falls To Minot, 77-65

MINOT, N. D. (AP) — Glenn Robinson hit 22 points to pace Minot State to a 77-65 collegiate basketball victory over Chadron (Neb.) State Monday night.

Robinson was aided by Steve Dentz and Jay Sundheim with 3 points each and Terry Volles with 12.

Ray Milczewski was high man for Chadron with 7.

Minot had turned a 51-31 lead by halftime.

The victory boosts Minot to a 3-4 overall record while Chadron fell to 4-4 on the year.

CHADRON (65) — Milczewski 17, Ingabrand 14, Snyder 12, Scheiman 12, Wendler 8, Barrows 2.

Halftime — Minot 51, Chadron 31.

Milford Named Kings' Manager

LOS ANGELES (AP) — John "Jake" Milford moved up Monday to the title of general manager of the Los Angeles Kings as the National Hockey League club announced the complete resignation of Larry Regan.

Milford, who had joined the team this year as assistant general manager, took over Regan's duties late last month when Regan resigned but was retained in a scouting capacity.

Milford came to Los Angeles after 13 years in the New York Ranger system, including eight years as general manager and coach of Omaha and St. Paul in the Central League.

Pitchers Set Mark For Wins

BOSTON (AP) — A record number of 20-game winners and the most no-hitters in 11 years feature the official 1973 American League pitching records announced today by President Joe Cronin.

Twelve pitchers hit the charmed 20-victory mark, bettering the record of 10 for a 12-team league in 1971. The old eight-team record also was 10, set in 1907 and equaled in 1920.

Nolan Ryan of the California Angels set a major league record by striking out 383, one more than Sandy Koufax of the Los Angeles Dodgers in 1965. Ryan also hurled two of four no-hitters in the American League in 1973. Others were by rookies Steve Busby of Kansas City and Jim Bibby of Texas.

Right-hander Jim Palmer of the Baltimore Orioles posted a 22-9 record and led the league with a 2.40 earned run average. Palmer has won 20 or more for four consecutive years.

Wilbur Wood of the Chicago White Sox won 24 games and Jim Hunter of Oakland 21 as each hit the 20-victory mark for the third year in a row.

Others in the select group were Joe Coleman of Detroit (23), Luis Tiant of Boston (20), Vida Blue of Oakland (20), Ryan (21) and Bill Singer of California (20). Ken Holtzman of Oakland (21), Paul Shottorff of Kansas City (20), Jim Colburn of Milwaukee (20), and Bert Blyleven of Minnesota (20).

Viking Practice Moved South

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (AP) — The Minnesota Vikings opted for the warmer weather of Tulsa, Okla., as training site for their National Football League playoff game.

The Vikings will meet the Washington Redskins at Metropolitan Stadium here Saturday where daytime temperatures are expected to be no higher than in the teens and 20s the next three days.

The squad will leave for Tulsa University Tuesday morning and return Thursday evening.

Coach Bud Grant said practicing in cold weather disturbs timing, adding, "We just like to get down there and work out in better weather."

Pass Pioneer Dies

Athens, Ga. (AP) — James Wallace Butts, the former University of Georgia football coach recognized as a pioneer of the passing game in the South, died Monday shortly after he returned home from a routine morning walk.

Wichita State Cagers Placed On Probation

TULSA, Okla. (AP) — Wichita State University's basketball team was placed on probation for two years Monday by Missouri Valley Conference headquarters because of recruiting violations.

The ruling will prevent Wichita State from playing for the conference championship or in any post-season tournaments for two years.

The ruling, announced by Conference Commissioner Mickey Holmes, stems from the case of Rudy Jackson, a transfer from Hutchinson (Kan.) Junior College.

Jackson had not graduated from high school in New York but his records had been altered to indicate graduation, a conference spokesman said. The university became involved because a student assistant knew of the situation.

The penalty dates back to Dec. 4, the date of a meeting of conference officials.

"For violation of the Missouri Valley Conference and NCAA provisions to which the Missouri Valley Conference subscribes, Wichita State University's basketball program shall be on probation for two years from this date (Dec. 4)," Holmes' statement said.

"Said probation shall preclude Wichita State University's basketball team from being eligible for the Missouri Valley Conference Championship and shall also preclude Wichita State University's basketball team from participating in any post-season basketball competition during the period of the probation."

The order also provides for the conference to review basketball policies and practices before the probation is to be lifted.

Basketball Coach Harry Miller said he was disappointed with the two-year probation but declined to comment on specific violations.

Miller said he planned to tell his players after practice Monday about the conference action.

"I hope they react like Oklahoma did," he said, referring to the University of Oklahoma's football probation.

WSU Athletic Director Ted Bredehoff said the probation would not affect WSU's hosting of the National Collegiate Athletic Association's midwest basketball regional to be held here. The regional originally was removed from New Mexico State when that school was placed on NCAA probation.

The Shockers host Nebraska in the Huskers' final non-conference basketball game on Jan. 7.

UPI Rankings List KSU, OU

NEW YORK (UPI) — Another pretender to the crown has been repelled and UCLA again reigns over the college basketball world by unanimous vote of United Press International's Board of Coaches.

Despite Bill Walton's missing more than half the game because of foul trouble Saturday, the Bruins crushed North Carolina State, then ranked second, 84-66.

The victory continued the Bruins' stranglehold on the No. 1 rating in the nation as "The Streak" grew to 79 and UCLA picked up the sole first place ballot cast for N.C. State last week.

Meanwhile, the Wolfpack tumbled to sixth in the ratings as their 29-game win streak came to an inglorious demise.

Kansas State jumped from 14th into an 11th-place tie with Alabama with a pair of victories.

Closing out the top 20, in order, were Long Beach State, South Carolina, Cincinnati, New Mexico, Vanderbilt, Oklahoma, Arizona, and Memphis State.

NFL Draft Set For Jan. 29

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League's annual collegiate player draft will start Tuesday, Jan. 29, at 10 a.m. EST. Commissioner Pete Rozelle said Monday.

The draft generally takes two days involving 442 players in 17 rounds. Last year's draft consumed 20 hours, 31 minutes.

As usual, the 26 teams will draft in reverse order of their standings with the exception of the two Super Bowl teams, with the loser picking next-to-last and the winner going last. In case of ties, a flip of the coin will decide which team goes first. In succeeding rounds, the order of those teams will be reversed.

LSE Rated City Swim Favorites

By RANDY YORK
Prep Sports Writer

Lincoln Southeast swimming coach Steve Nootz doesn't believe in mincing words.

"We have the potential and the ability to be as good a team as Southeast has ever had in swimming," says Nootz, a former University of Nebraska swimming co-captain in his second year as head coach at Southeast.

In light of Nootz' optimistic appraisal, it's no surprise that Lincoln's prep swimming coaches have installed the Knights as heavy city-wide favorites.

"We have the people back to be the favorite," Nootz acknowledges, "but it's going to be a well-balanced race among us, East and Lincoln High.

"It all depends on how hard our young men want to work," he adds. "We're well balanced with seven seniors, nine juniors and five sophomores on the varsity squad.

"Last year we were strong in the special events, but weak in freestyle," points out Nootz, whose team finished third in last season's state meet behind Omaha Westside and East.

"This year," Nootz believes, "we have the material to change our freestyle weakness. I'm not at Southeast to settle for second or third place. I'm here to win and I hope our swimmers have the same attitude."

Leading a list of 11 returning Southeast swimming lettermen is junior standout Ed Johnson, who won the state championship in the 100-yard butterfly as a sophomore.

Ed Johnson
State Butterfly Champ

The Knights' also return solid state-wide threats in senior Brian Magee (individual medley, butterfly specialist) and junior divers Tom Weyrauch and Pete Maude.

Other returning Knight lettermen include Craig Smith, Norm Higley, Scott Ballantine, Paul Koerner, Doug Balok, Tom Swihart and Jeff Yant.

Allen Scheer, a freestyle and butterfly specialist transfer lettermen from California, is a promising prospect. Among others are senior Terry Stovall, junior Jim Lamphere and sophomores Jim Perry, John Harrington, Stuart Magee, Clay Smith and Mark Porter.

Perry, a backstroke, could be among the state's best in the event despite being a sophomore.

East coach Dennis Vokolek, an Iowa graduate in his seventh year at East, returns eight lettermen in a bid to challenge Southeast for city honors.

Four of the eight returnees placed in the state meet last winter as the Spartans finished second behind Westside.

"Our strong suit is 13 seniors," says Vokolek. "As always, we expect to be competitive through this traditional senior strength. A change in scoring will make a greater balance in lineups for depth and talent factors and should help us in our attempt to defend the Trans-Nebraska championship."

East's talent lies in the versatility of a pair of 1973 all-city swimming selections — junior Greg Rutford (200 individual medley, 100 butterfly and freestyle relay) and senior 2-year lettermen Mike Fritsch (50 and 100 freestyles and freestyle relay).

Rutford was the Sunday Journal and Star's Lambert Trophy winner last summer. Captain Dave Wegener, a breaststroke, heads the list of the other six returning Spartan lettermen.

They include junior diver Pete Allman, senior Brad Bader (200 individual medley, 100 breaststroke), senior 2-year lettermen Rick Byrd (medley, 100 breaststroke), senior breaststroke Scott Forke and senior butterfly specialist Randy Johnson.

A new rule, which allows for more participation and scoring, should keep inner-city competition traditionally close.

Although Lincoln High's swimming team was hit by graduation equally as hard as East, 13-year Links' coach Gene Cotter builds around six returning lettermen, six of which are juniors.

Backstroke Dave McCleery, freestyle Paul Wolford and freestyle sprinter Tom Houchen, the only senior, lead the Links' lettermen.

Cotter will count heavily on non-lettermen sophomores Terry Houchen and Rick Thomassen in the individual medley.

His other lettermen from last season's fourth place state team are diver Bob Rothwell, freestyle sprinter Tim Mientka, butterfly specialist Kim Pelowski and breaststroke Duane Watermeier. Sophomore breaststroke John Kessler is another promising prospect.

Ken Wall, the longest active swimming coach in the state high school ranks, enters his 21st year at Northeast.

"We're small in numbers. We have only 14 kids out," the Cincinnati University graduate notes. "We only lost one letterman, but we had a 3-7 dual season. We had two lettermen back last year and four this year. Maybe we'll be twice as good."

The Rockets launched their swimming season with a 50-33 win over Columbus. They rely on senior lettermen Mike Olsen (butterfly), Mike Bevins (freestyle sprinter) and Doug Brannin (backstroke) and junior monogram winner Kevin Seevers (breaststroke).

Junior butterfly specialist Tom Delgado, who's been sidelined with an ear infection, and sophomore diver Mike Nelson are other promising Rocket prospects.

"We'll be outmanned, but we'll be in there competing," vows Wall, who says, "I can hardly wait until we get into our new facility next season. It's not too attractive for athletes to swim in a 4-lane pool."

Penalties Pondered For SMU

DALLAS (AP) — Cliff Speegle, executive secretary of the Southwest Conference, said Monday faculty representatives would have to act against Southern Methodist and Coach Dave Smith who admitted he gave $5 bonuses for big plays during the 1973 football season.

"Yes, there will be some kind of action taken by the faculty people on the SMU problem... they've got to take action," Speegle told The Associated Press. "I haven't the slightest idea what the faculty people will do under the circumstances."

Speegle said some action could come as early as Jan. 7 at the National Collegiate Athletic Association meeting in San Francisco where SWC officials have a breakfast meeting scheduled.

A high university source told The Dallas Times Herald Monday: "There is a very good chance a new athletic director will be appointed Monday even though his identity may not be made public for several days."

"Also the person will be a businessman, one outside the university. There's a possibility Smith could retain the dual job of athletic director and head football coach but it is unlikely."

"By the letter of the law we are guilty," Smith said.

He admitted that suicide squad members on the specialty teams got $5 a tackle for individual tackles.

Smith also said $5 was given to scout team members and that the traveling squad was given an average of 2½ tickets per player instead of the two per player allowed by the conference.

Smith said he would have no strong objections to losing his job as athletic director.

Dr. Paul Hardin, the SMU president who blew the whistle on the payoff practices at the conference winter meeting, said there is no plan to dismiss any SMU coaches.

A three-man conference committee is scheduled on the SMU campus Wednesday to discuss the matter with school officials.

College Park, Md. (AP) — Tom McMillen, a star basketball player at the University of Maryland, has been granted a Rhodes Scholarship to study at Oxford University in England for one year.

Majors Denies Reports

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Johny Majors, head football coach at the University of Pittsburgh, flatly denied Monday a published report that he planned to become head coach at the University of Mississippi next year.

The report appeared in Monday's New York Post.

"That's ridiculous," Majors said when reached by telephone in Phoenix, where his team has started practice for the Fiesta Bowl Dec. 21.

"Whoever wrote that is pretending to know something I don't know," Majors added. "They know something in the stars, maybe."

Majors said he fully expects to remain at Pitt through the remainder of his five-year contract, "and longer if I can."

"Heck, I like it in Pittsburgh," he said. "We've got things moving in our direction, and I certainly want to see that through."

Majors joined Pitt last spring after the Panthers compiled a 1-10 season in 1972, worst in its history. Pitt's 1973 record was 6-4-1.

Swim Victory To NE YMCA

Lincoln Northeast YMCA defeated Hastings and Norfolk in a triangular swim meet at the Northeast YMCA Sunday.

Northeast YMCA scored 763½ to 523½ for Norfolk and 418 for Hastings.

'God Almighty, It Was Terrible'

... Hijack Witness Says

Rome (UPI) — Five Texas businessmen were changing money at a bank near Gate 14 at 12:55 p.m. Monday when they heard running footsteps approaching.

They turned in time to see at least two Arab terrorists dash past a few yards away, spraying pistol and submachinegun bullets around the west wing departure area at Leonardo da Vinci Airport.

"There were shots all over the place," H. L. Packer said.

The Arabs stormed up to the security checkpoint and disarmed about six pistol-carrying officers, the businessmen said.

By this time the businessmen were flat on the floor behind the bank.

"My heart was really pounding," Packer said.

It seemed only like seconds before the Texans heard one big explosion like a sonic boom, then a second one, more like a thump, about five seconds later.

Spewing Smoke

They looked up and saw Pan American's "Celestial Clipper" spewing smoke.

They joined the sea of screaming, crying passengers running away from the scene. Bullet holes pocked floor to ceiling glass walls. A security guard, firing back as he darted from pillar to pillar for cover, was ripped by terrorist bullets.

"It was incredible watching all these people running," Steve Summer of Dallas said. "God Almighty, it was terrible."

R. W. Winter of Dallas about five minutes earlier had gone beyond the bank to a souvenir stand near the security checkpoint to buy a toy for his son.

"I walked right into it," Winter said. "Shots were hitting the ceiling. I bowled two people over diving for cover."

Hostages Marched

The men trapped at the bank said the Arabs were marching the security hostages toward departure Gate 10 when the counterfire from Italians apparently began.

At this moment the "Celestial Clipper" at Gate 15 was almost fully boarded. Pan Americans jumbo jet flight 110 was late from New York so the company rolled out the "Celestial Clipper" in its place to make the Rome-Beirut run on time.

Two parking bays away, next to an unmanned Air France Plane, stood a Lufthansa Boeing 737. In 10 minutes it would begin taking on passengers for the flight to Munich. The four-man crew and one cleaner were aboard. Wind-driven rain swept the tarmac.

What happened at this point remains unclear.

The Arabs apparently blasted the glass door at departure Gate 10 to pieces with machinegun fire and forced the security hostages toward the "Celestial Clipper."

Dotted With Holes

They left in their wake a glass wall dotted with bullet holes at knee level, a shattered overhead light assembly and water pouring from punctured ceiling air conditioners.

"Two, three or four hijackers stormed the Pan Am plane," said Frank S. Guzzardo, Pan Am director for Italy. "They started to fire pistols in the passenger cabin. They also tossed grenades toward the rear of the cabin."

Guzzardo said 59 passengers and nine crewmembers were aboard.

The blasts peeled away, as if with a giant can opener, a 10-foot strip of roof in the tourists section of the Boeing. They ripped a circular hole several feet wide in the roof above first class. All but nine windows on the port side were blown out. Fire and smoke spread rapidly.

Italian officials who saw the charred interior said most first class victims were still in their seats while in tourist class there was evidence many who died had perished while trying to get out.

Palestinian Group Condemns Killings

©The New York Times

Beirut — The terrorists who attacked Rome Airport and hijacked a West German airliner to Athens were condemned Monday by the Palestinian Liberation Organization as serving "designs hostile to our people."

The unanimous view in political circles here was that the attack and the subsequent killings in Rome and Athens had been carried out by some small extremist group, not under the discipline of any major Palestinian guerrilla group, with the object of upsetting the proposed Middle East peace conference in Geneva.

The Palestinian Democratic

Front, a leftwing sector of the Palestinian resistance, called the attack a "dirty" action.

The PLO which is the steering group for all the major guerrilla organizations, said that "the Palestinian people cannot but express deep regret over what happened at Rome Airport."

But the killings in Rome, where several Arabs were among the victims, produced more genuine shock here than the earlier extremist actions. An editorial prepared for publication by an Nahar, Lebanon's leading newspaper, said the killing had placed "a burden on the Arab conscience at a moment when the plight of the Palestinian people was starting to be a burden on the conscience of the world."

Skylab 3 Astronauts Are Growing Taller

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Skylab 3's astronauts have grown up to an inch or more in height and lost some inches around the waist since they left earth, a space doctor said Monday.

Astronauts Gerald P. Carr, William R. Pogue and Edward G. Gibson have all grown between three-fourths and one and three-fourths inches since they were launched into space on Nov. 16, according to medical studies.

Dr. Story Musgrave, an astronaut-physician, also told the men of Skylab 3 Monday that their physical fitness is as good as before they left earth and that Gibson "is starting to improve beyond the physical condition that he had preflight."

"We see a very significant decrease in the chest circumference and waist," said Musgrave, in a medical conference with the orbiting astronauts. "What we're thinking is that you increased in height between an inch and two inches and that's what caused these decreases in the chest and the abdomen."

"We're walking tall, huh?" said Carr. "I just hope we can keep it when we get back to one G (gravity)."

Musgrave said the increase in height is thought to be caused by a shift of fluids in the astronauts' bodies. He said without the effects of gravity, the discs in the astronauts' spines are taking up more water and expanding. Also, he said, the "antigravity muscles" in the back are not compressing the discs as they do on earth.

The astronaut-doctor told the Skylab 3 astronauts that they apparently lost about two quarts of fluid from their legs in a major shifting of fluids early in the mission.

All these changes were found in tests studying the effects of long-term exposure to weightlessness. The changes are thought to be only temporary and will vanish when they return to earth.

A vigorous exercise program carried out by Carr, Pogue and Gibson apparently is paying off, said Musgrave, because they are not experiencing some of the muscular deconditioning observed among earlier space crews.

He said, however, that their vital capacity, a measure of their use of oxygen, has decreased about three to five per cent.

"You have a little more fluid or blood in the chest," said Musgrave. "This would not allow you to fill the chest with air."

The medical conference was one of a series of discussions Monday between the astronauts and experts on the ground.

The men of Skylab 3 were in the 32nd day of their 84-day mission Monday.

Office Staff Of Equal Employment Opportunity Commission Resigns

By BOB GUENTHER
Star Staff Writer

The three-woman office staff of the Nebraska Equal Opportunity Commission has quit because, in the words of the office supervisor, the commission "is trying to turn away from helping people."

Mrs. Norma Hinman, who in recent weeks left her job with the commission along with Miss Helen Reed and Mrs. Mary

Wilson, charged Monday that two commission members in particular "are destroying all the work we've done in the last six years."

Specifically, Mrs. Hinman said she was told by the commission to "put aside new charges (of discrimination) in the back of a file cabinet until" the commission gets back to them.

Instead of investigating charges of discrimination, Mrs. Hinman said the commission is more concerned with setting up a reference library, attending seminars and following discrimination cases after they reach the district court level.

Singled out by Mrs. Hinman for criticism were commission members Ms. Anne Trombley and Mrs. Essie Burden, both of Lincoln.

"The reason we left was not the new director (Wright Robinson) or the staff, just the commission," she said.

Takeover

Although Mrs. Trombley and Mrs. Burden are only two on a seven-member commission, Mrs. Hinman said they were able to "take over because they talk louder and faster than the others."

"The rest were gentlemen — they let them take over."

Mrs. Hinman said she decided to leave her post as office supervisor when she was told that it was likely that she would not be paid in May and June of next year because funds were insufficient.

Ms. Trombley and Mrs. Burden were leading the commission beyond the scope of its legal activities, Mrs. Hinman said, through involvement with certain cases at the district court level.

Under former director Reid Devoe, Mrs. Hinman said, all commission work used to halt once a commission finding had been taken to district court.

Not Much Help

"I couldn't see that seminars and legal libraries were doing the complainants much good,"

she said.

Mrs. Hinman, who now works for Donley Medical Supply, said there are rumors that the resignations might spread to workers in the commission's Omaha office.

Acting Director Wright Robinson denied that complaints were being shelved in favor of work on a legal library and seminars.

"We're processing cases as they come in," Robinson said.

He added that there had been no mention of the commission running out of money prior to the end of the fiscal year.

"They worked under the close supervision of Reid Devoe and may have wanted to leave after he did," he said.

Devoe quit his post earlier this fall, after a bitter rift between Devoe and Ms. Trombley and Mrs. Burden over his actions as director.
